

Candidates Busy Returning Milk Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political candidates have returned nearly 30 per cent of the campaign contributions given them by the three biggest dairy cooperatives since Watergate investigators began looking at milk money, campaign finance reports indicate.

An Associated Press tabulation shows that at least 10 candidates have given back sums totaling $27,150—28.9 per cent of the $94,090 the co-ops gave to individual candidates since Sept. 1, about the time the Senate Watergate committee took up the milk-fund affair.

During the same period, the dairy-farmer groups have continued to reap political money from their members at the rate of more than $1 million a year. The pace of collections has dropped only 8 per cent in the last year.

The dairymen now have amassed a cash fund of $2.2 million for this year's elections, according to reports filed with federal agencies.

The largest of the co-ops, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., has $1.55 million, the richest political trust in the nation. The other two big co-ops, Dairymen, Inc., and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., each have funds of more than $300,000.

Although many candidates have returned dairy donations, and others have sent word that they don't want any, neither the Democratic nor the Republican party has returned any milk money.

The co-ops have given $93,013 since Sept. 1 to various national, state and county committees of both parties. This is roughly as much as the dairymen gave to individual candidates. Of the total, $57,473 went to Democratic committees and $35,540 to GOP.

Those known to have returned money are Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kans., $15,600; Gov. Wendell Anderson, D-Minn., $6,000; former Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., $2,000; Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., $1,500; Rep. James R. Jones D-Mo., $1,000; Rep. Thomas Railsback, R-Ill., $500; Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., $250; Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., $100; Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, $100; and Texas State Rep. Frank Lombardino, a Democrat, $100. Also, a $2,000 donation was returned by a bipartisan committee, the Oklahoma Dairy Committee of Dell City, Okla. This was part of $6,273 that the co-ops gave to nonpartisan or bipartisan groups.

Those who gave money back generally said they acted because of Watergate disclosures about the co-ops. Three of the refunders, Rangel, Railsback and Owens, are members of the House Judiciary Committee, which is investigating allegations that the co-ops influenced President Nixon to raise milk prices in 1971.

Dole, who gave back the most, said in an interview that he acted because the co-ops are being sued for antitrust violations by the government and because of unfavorable Watergate publicity. "Having been national chairman I guess I'm a little suspect anyway," said Dole, former head of the Republican National Committee. "So why take any chances?"

Allegations about the milk producers, under investigation by the Senate, House and the Watergate prosecutor, involve illegal corporate donations, accusations of bribery and extortion and evidence of attempts to rig milk price supports, a government antitrust suit, import quotas on dairy products and possibly an Internal Revenue Service audit.

Although milk money has soured for some candidates, most have not returned their donations. Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Agriculture Committee, received $10,000 from the dairymen whose legislation he handles. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., another member of the committee, got $4,100 to help retire his debts from 1972 presidential primaries.

The biggest recipient is Rep. David R. Bowen, D-Miss., who got $15,000 and who sits on the House Agriculture Committee. Two other members of the same committee also received large amounts. Jerry Litton, D-Mo., got $5,090 and Frank A. Stubblefield, D-Ky., got $5,000 in his unsuccessful primary race for renomination.

Another primary victim, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., got $2,000 in his losing race.

Still, the money piles up, deducted automatically from many of the checks the co-ops send to their members to pay them for their milk. Deductions are made only from those members who sign up voluntarily for the check-off program.

Donations stop when they reach $99 in a given year. This avoids what would otherwise be a monumental bookkeeping task, since the law requires the co-ops to list publicly all the donors of $100 or more.

Literally thousands of dairy farmers participate in the program, although calculations show that these amount to fewer than one-fourth of all co-op members.

Egypt To Get Atomic Assistance From U.S.

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — President Nixon flew into Saudi Arabia on a sleepy Moslem Sabbath today and was embraced by King Faisal on the airport tarmac.

He arrived from Cairo where he wound up a triumphal 48-hour visit by announcing the United States would provide large-scale aid to Egypt for agricultural and industrial development, including nuclear power.

The Israeli government said it must closely examine the issue of U.S. nuclear aid to Egypt before issuing any official reaction. But the Israeli state radio gave the nuclear news as the first item in its bulletins, indicating Israeli concern over the possibility of Egypt developing nuclear weapons.

After an overnight stay in Alexandria, a visit to the Pyramids and a final conference, Nixon and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt appeared together at a ceremony in Cairo to announce a joint statement of principles. It included agreements worked out earlier by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Sadat.

No figures were given on what the aid would cost.

The joint statement said the American and Egyptian governments will negotiate an agreement to enable Egypt to generate nuclear power by the early 1980s. "Upon conclusion of such an agreement, the United States is prepared to sell nuclear reactors and fuel to Egypt," the statement said.

In the meantime, the United States and Egypt will conclude "a provisional agreement for the sale of nuclear fuel to Egypt," it added.

The joint agreement did not specifically prohibit Egypt from using American nuclear aid for weapons. But the United States is bound by the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty to insure that any nuclear assistance it provides does not end up in weapons, and the announcement today said the sale of nuclear material to Egypt would be "under agreed safeguards."

This American aid would enable Egypt to close some of the nuclear gap between it and Israel, which has two nuclear reactors and numerous first-rate scientists. Israel's leaders have said repeatedly they have no intention of producing nuclear arms, but political and military observers in Europe and the United States are convinced Israel is able to turn out such arms.

Nixon pledged American money, capital investment and technological aid to help with Egypt's reconstruction, industrialization, agricultural improvement and scientific and educational advancement as well as "to help strengthen the financial structure of Egypt."

The statement said Treasury Secretary William E. Simon would visit Cairo soon to get this started.

Nixon already has asked Congress for $250 million in economic aid for Egypt in fiscal 1975. The statement said joint committees will be set up to work out projects and proposals.

They will deal specifically with reconstruction of the Suez Canal, increased trade and investment, agriculture, scientific and research development with "special emphasis on the exchange of scientists," medical cooperation and cultural exchanges.

As a token of the new spirit of cooperation between the two governments, the U.S. government said it would assist in the reconstruction of the Cairo Opera House, and the Egyptian government will send the collection of treasures from the tomb of King Tutankhamen to the United States for exhibition.

Tax Harrassment Studied By Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee considers charges of tax harassment of political enemies by the Nixon administration a "very significant" part of the committee's impeachment inquiry.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the evidence dealing with the Internal Revenue Service "raises a question of whether there has been a serious abuse of power by the office of the presidency."

The charges, involving audits of selected tax returns and leaks of tax information, originally were aired in the Senate Watergate hearings last year when existence of the White House enemies list became known.

They also include alleged favorable tax treatment for friends of the administration.

Rodino spoke at a news briefing Thursday after the conclusion of the IRS presentation to the committee. He declined to say whether any of the evidence linked President Nixon to the IRS actions.

Another member, Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, said, "We wouldn't be looking at it," if there was no indication of presidential involvement.

Mezvinsky said he considered the IRS matter "as significant, if not more so, than the Watergate matter." But Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., also at the briefing, said he did not detect any serious problem for the President in the IRS presentation.

The committee's special counsel for the impeachment inquiry, John Doar, said he will ask the committee to subpoena a key bit of evidence that could bear on Nixon's knowledge of the use of the IRS for political purposes. The committee lacks a 17-minute segment of a White House tape that U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica deleted from a longer conversation. The Sept. 15, 1972, tape was one of the original nine tapes subpoenaed by the special prosecutor's office. Sirica deleted a portion of it as irrelevant to the Watergate investigation.

However, special prosecutor Leon Jaworski asked that it be released and Sirica agreed. The White House has until today to appeal Sirica's decision.

Doar said the subpoena would be directed to President Nixon.

Rodino hopes to finish presenting evidence next week and is not expected to call a business meeting for a week to 10 days.

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Pat Nixon today drew the cheers of thousands of Egyptians as she broke off from the official presidential party to visit a children's center and a weaving factory.

Mrs. Nixon visited the pyramids with her husband and President and Mrs. Sadat on returning from an overnight stay in Alexandria.

Then the two women went off for a half-hour tour of the "City of Health," a children's rest home not far from the pyramids where children of tubercular parents are cared for.

Low clouds and fog hovered over the Pacific Coast, while cool but generally fair weather prevailed through the Ohio Valley and in the northern Atlantic Coast states.

In a repeat of Thursday afternoon's performance in which 20 demonstrators were arrested, the Macomb County Circuit Court judge appeared atop a Dodge flatbed truck in his judicial robes this morning and warned about two dozen sign-carrying pickets they would be arrested if they did not disperse immediately.

The judge had issued an antipicketing order Tuesday.

"If you do not leave immediately you will be arrested for contempt of court," the judge said over a bullhorn as the truck carried him along the plant gates.

Several protesters refused to move and Stair ordered dozens of local police in this Detroit suburb to arrest them one by one. The protesters had vowed on Thursday to return despite Stair's promise to impose automatic sentences if they showed up again.

Another 15 demonstrators voluntarily crossed the street and were not arrested today. The pickets were protesting what they claimed were health and safety hazards, work speedups, harassment and discrimination at the plant, which employs about 6,000 men.

The protesters are members of United Auto Workers Local 140, whose officials oppose the strike.

Watergate 7 Ask Reversal Of Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The original seven Watergate break-in defendants are seeking to overturn their convictions in hearings before the U.S. Court of Appeals.

All have asked for reversals of their convictions on various offenses stemming from the June 17, 1972, burglary at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

G. Gordon Liddy, the silent man among the defendants, is asking the appeals court to overturn his conviction for conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping on grounds the judge in the original trial improperly instructed the jury in the case.

Lawyers for Liddy say U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica took insufficient care in making sure the jurors were not biased against Liddy when the trial began.

Liddy, once the counsel for the Finance Committee to ReElect the President, is the only original defendant still in jail. The others have finished their jail terms or have been released pending appeal.

Liddy also faces charges in the plumbers trial tentatively scheduled to

A steady stream of arriving workers pulled into the plant today and company officials predicted most of the 3,000 day shift workers would be on the job for the first time since Monday.

Stair said those arrested would be taken to Macomb County jail where he would hold hearings on the charges later today. He had dismissed charges against the 20 arrested Thursday.

Those arrested today could be sentenced to 90 days in jail.

In his Thursday session, Stair, flanked by sheriff's deputies, used a bullhorn to declare court in session for about 100 protesters. He told them they would be arrested if they did not disperse.

When they failed to move he told more than 50 police on hand, "Arrest them for contempt of court."

First arrested was fired Local 140 steward Steven Smith, 32, whom Stair described as the "instigator" of the three-day strike. Smith was one of four workers dismissed Monday for leading a walkout and demonstration by some 100 workers last week. The firings sparked the wildcat strike.

Plant manager Jack Kahle said about half of the 3,000 afternoon-shift workers were on the job after the arrests. A spokesman for the protesters said only a few hundred were back at work. The plant normally produces 1,000 units a day.

begin next week. He has been sentenced to a term of six years, eight months to 20 years and fined $40,000 in the Watergate burglary, in addition to sentences tacked on for refusing to testify before a House subcommittee and a grand jury.

Five of the original defendants, E. Howard Hunt Jr., Bernard L. Barker, Virgilio R. Gonzalez, Eugenio R. Martinez and Frank A. Sturgis, are asking the appeals court for permission to revoke the guilty pleas they entered in the trial Sirica presided over, claiming they realized only subsequently that the break-in had political motives. They claim they pleaded guilty believing the burglary was a legitimate national security operation.

A legal brief filed by Hunt's lawyers also says the federal investigation of the break-in was improperly conducted.

Hunt, free pending appeal, was sentenced to two and one-half to eight years and fined $10,000. The other four were sentenced to jail terms of various lengths. The last of the seven, James W. McCord Jr., also is free pending appeal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Disappointment over persisting high interest rates pushed the stock market broadly lower today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.27 at 844.81, and gainers lagged behind losers by 7-to-2 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said there was general disappointment on Wall Street at the failure of some declines in borrowing costs which showed up last week to continue in recent days. Weekly figures released by the Federal Reserve after Thursday's close on business borrowing in the money market seemed to indicate no lessen of tight-money pressures, brokers said.

American Motors was the most-active NYSE issue, down 1/8 at 6. On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .48 at 84.15.

The Amex volume leader was Marinduque Mining B, down 1/4 at 4 1/2. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .40 to 48.10.

Gulf Oil Office Bombed By Radicals

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The radical Weather Underground has claimed responsibility for an explosion which shattered offices on the 29th floor of the Gulf Oil Corp.'s skyscraper headquarters.

No injuries were reported, but police said damage from the Thursday night blast was extensive. Assistant Police Supt. Robert Coll said the cause of the explosion was "apparently dynamite."

The blast tore a hole two feet in diameter in the floor, shattered windows and left a jumble of furniture and lamps in the offices of Gulf Asian Corp., a Gulf subsidiary. There was no fire.

A switchboard operator at the building received a telephone warning from someone claiming to represent the Weather Underground about 20 minutes before the explosion. Police and firemen were beginning to search the 38-story building when the bomb went off. Seven were trapped in an elevator for about 40 minutes.

One of the trapped men, Fire Capt. James Flavin, later said the explosion "blew off every elevator door" on the 29th floor. The bomb apparently was planted across the hall from the elevator bank, authorities said. Minutes before the explosion at 9:43 p.m. EDT, The Associated Press received a telephone call from a woman who claimed to be a member of the Weather Underground. She said

New Irish Violence Hits Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Violence flared again in Northern Ireland Thursday and early today, leaving one man dead and three injured in four separate shooting incidents.

The dead man was identified as Peter Meighan, 37, a Roman Catholic from Manchester, England, found fatally shot in a Belfast street. Police, who speculated the shot came from a passing car, said he had been in Belfast only a week and was visiting relatives in the Lower Falls area.

He was the 1,029th known fatality since civil strife between Protestants and Catholic extremists erupted in August 1969.

Elsewhere in the capital, a man was seriously wounded as he left his house and another man was found behind a shopping center shot in both kneecaps. In a third incident, gunmen fired about 15 shots into a Roman Catholic family's home in Coagh, a small farming village in County Tyrone, wounding a woman in the house, police said.

British soldiers launched raids against the assembly halls belonging to the Loyal Orange Order, an organization of Protestant supremacist clubs, to search for weapons.

The army said more than 50 guns, more than 6,000 rounds of ammunition, and parts of homemade mortars and explosives were found.

Majority Against Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says for the first time one of his nationwide surveys indicates a majority of Americans believe President Nixon "should be impeached and removed from office."

Harris said Thursday that view was expressed by a 52 to 35 per cent margin of the 1,413 adults interviewed during the first four days of June. A sampling taken in early May registered a plurality but not a majority—49 to 41 per cent—who favored impeachment and removal.

"Nixon appears to be in the deepest trouble yet in the impeachment and Watergate matters," Harris said.

By a 48 to 37 per cent plurality, those queried believed Nixon knew about the original break-in at Democratic national headquarters, said Harris. In a poll taken a year ago only 21 per cent believed Nixon was fully aware of the cover-up efforts, with 58 per cent disagreeing.

the group had planted a bomb in the building in retaliation for Gulf's racial policies in Portugal's African colony of Angola.

The city's two daily newspapers received calls of a similar nature, as did WCBS-TV in New York, although that call came well after the explosion.

There was no immediate damage estimate.

It was the second time in two weeks that the Weather Underground claimed responsibility for a bombing. On May 31, a bomb the group claimed to have planted damaged the California attorney general's office in Los Angeles. That bombing was described as an expression of sympathy for the Symbionese Liberation Army, the organization which kidnaped Patricia Hearst. Six of its members had just died in a shootout with Los Angeles police.

In both bombings, members of the news media were directed to telephone booths where they found letters signed "Weather Underground" and bearing the sign of the radical group—an arrow piercing a rainbow.

The Gulf letter was an eight page pamphlet addressed mainly to Gulf's alleged "crimes" against peoples around the world. In capital letters outlined in black it referred to Gulf as "OUR COMMON ENEMY."

The group splintered from the Students for a Democratic Society in the late 1960s. FBI agents said recently the group was "relatively small, 20 to 30 persons."

A 3:30 p.m. accident Thursday sent a Route 2, Mt. Sterling man to Doctors West Hospital, Columbus, for laceration to his neck and chin.

Harold E. Houser, 54, was going south on U.S. 62 when he went off the berm of the road hitting a cement culvert and came to rest in a drainage ditch.

He stated to Deputy Earl Kuhn that he went off the road to miss a car making a left hand turn.

Calley Plans New Appeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lawyers for William L. Calley Jr. say they probably will ask the U.S. Supreme Court for an emergency order to overturn a decision forcing Calley back into military custody.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals agreed with the U.S. Army's objection to Calley's freedom on bail and ruled Thursday that the former Army lieutenant should be returned to "full military custody."

Calley, who was found guilty by a court-martial in 1971 of the murder of at least 22 villagers in My Lai during the Vietnam war, could not be reached for comment.

His lawyers said Calley would be "crushed" by the ruling. They said they probably will appeal to the Supreme Court for an emergency order blocking Calley's return to custody.

Calley had been freed on $1,000 personal recognizance bond by U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott last February, pending a decision on the merits of his appeal. Calley argued before the federal court in Georgia for a reversal of his conviction, claiming the military tribunal had not given "full and fair" consideration to a number of constitutional complaints raised during his trial.

Calley had been held under house arrest at Fort Benning, Ga., for nearly three years before Elliott freed him. He had been sentenced to life in prison, but that later was reduced to 10 years.

The appeals court ruling Thursday said Calley's only legal grounds for bail were a "substantial probability of success" in his claim of unconstitutional treatment and "extraordinary or exceptional circumstances" which would make bail necessary.

Harris said Thursday that view was expressed by a 52 to 35 per cent margin of the 1,413 adults interviewed during the first four days of June. A sampling taken in early May registered a plurality but not a majority—49 to 41 per cent—who favored impeachment and removal.

"Nixon appears to be in the deepest trouble yet in the impeachment and Watergate matters," Harris said.

By a 48 to 37 per cent plurality, those queried believed Nixon knew about the original break-in at Democratic national headquarters, said Harris. In a poll taken a year ago only 21 per cent believed Nixon was fully aware of the cover-up efforts, with 58 per cent disagreeing.

Center Cash Sent

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A final payment of $12,175, part of the federal government's share of the cost of building the Wood County Training Center for the mentally retarded, has been forwarded to county commissioners, it was announced today.

the group had planted a bomb in the building in retaliation for Gulf's racial policies in Portugal's African colony of Angola.

The city's two daily newspapers received calls of a similar nature, as did WCBS-TV in New York, although that call came well after the explosion. There was no immediate damage estimate.

It was the second time in two weeks that the Weather Underground claimed responsibility for a bombing. On May 31, a bomb the group claimed to have planted damaged the California attorney general's office in Los Angeles. That bombing was described as an expression of sympathy for the Symbionese Liberation Army, the organization which kidnapped Patricia Hearst. Six of its members had just died in a shootout with Los Angeles police.

In both bombings, members of the news media were directed to telephone booths where they found letters signed "Weather Underground" and bearing the sign of the radical group—an arrow piercing a rainbow.

The Gulf letter was an eight page pamphlet addressed mainly to Gulf's alleged "crimes" against peoples around the world. In capital letters outlined in black it referred to Gulf as "OUR COMMON ENEMY."

The group splintered from the Students for a Democratic Society in the late 1960s. FBI agents said recently the group was "relatively small, 20 to 30 persons."

Deputies Investigate Accidents

Robin Andrew Steely, 16, 2125 Chippewa Drive was eastbound on Route 22 when he went left of center making a left hand turn into a gravel drive. He stated he was unable to stop because his brakes went out and he drove over an embankment. He received minor injuries from the 5:15 p.m. Thursday crash.

Deputy Dan Dewey was the investigating officer.

A 3:30 p.m. accident Thursday sent a Route 2, Mt. Sterling man to Doctors West Hospital, Columbus, for laceration to his neck and chin.

Harold E. Houser, 54, was going south on U.S. 62 when he went off the berm of the road hitting a cement culvert and came to rest in a drainage ditch.

He stated to Deputy Earl Kuhn that he went off the road to miss a car making a left hand turn.

Robinholt Charged In Accident

Charges of fourth degree aggravated vehicular homicide were filed, Friday morning, against sixteen-year-old Randy Raymond Robinholt, Route 1, Lockbourne, involved in a fatal accident 5:50 p.m. Wednesday, on the Circleville-Lockbourne Road, killing Manford Oesterle, 69, Route 2, Ashville.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Deal cited Robinholt at the scene for not maintaining an assured clear distance and continued the investigation.

Robinholt was unable to stop for Oesterle's truck, attempted to pass, striking the left rear fender.

Oesterle's truck went out of control throwing him onto the berm of the road.

Calley Plans New Appeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lawyers for William L. Calley Jr. say they probably will ask the U.S. Supreme Court for an emergency order to overturn a decision forcing Calley back into military custody.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals agreed with the U.S. Army's objection to Calley's freedom on bail and ruled Thursday that the former Army lieutenant should be returned to "full military custody."

Calley, who was found guilty by a court-martial in 1971 of the murder of at least 22 villagers in My Lai during the Vietnam war, could not be reached for comment.

His lawyers said Calley would be "crushed" by the ruling. They said they probably will appeal to the Supreme Court for an emergency order blocking Calley's return to custody.

Calley had been freed on $1,000 personal recognizance bond by U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott last February, pending a decision on the merits of his appeal. Calley argued before the federal court in Georgia for a reversal of his conviction, claiming the military tribunal had not given "full and fair" consideration to a number of constitutional complaints raised during his trial.

Calley had been held under house arrest at Fort Benning, Ga., for nearly three years before Elliott freed him. He had been sentenced to life in prison, but that later was reduced to 10 years.

The appeals court ruling Thursday said Calley's only legal grounds for bail were a "substantial probability of success" in his claim of unconstitutional treatment and "extraordinary or exceptional circumstances" which would make bail necessary.

A Page Of Opinion

Summer Tourists Rolling

There has been a visible uplift in spirits among entrepreneurs at summer resort communities as a result of the Memorial Day experience, when the number of tourists on the road was regarded as highly satisfactory. In June, with the closing of schools, families start their summer holidays in earnest.

It should surprise no one if this summer is no exception. There is no reason why it should be.

Vacation long ago became a year-round thing in the United States. Some take theirs in summer, some in winter, the remainder at other seasons. While many of the accommodations are seasonal, they, too, are preparing for the next wave of guests in periods when they are closed down.

Summer vacation spots are not geared for the onslaught, but those which operate in winter are preparing for a record number of guests when they take over several months from now.

Nixon's Trip

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

WITH THE PRESIDENT—We are an armada no conqueror of ages past could possibly comprehend. We sail high over strange lands, over hooded peoples who may marvel at the long white plumes we string along the blue dome of their heavens. We thunder from point to point at almost the speed of sound. Some of the people riding or trudging in camel trains miles below us may beseech Allah to give them the answer to this puzzling visitation of our aerial fleet. Chances are that they never heard of us. Nor want to.

Some of the political observers in America and elsewhere are asking the same question: Why are we here?

The answers depend on the nature of the questioner. If he is an observer with a light touch he might say we are on this 15,000 mile trip with Mr. Nixon because the President recently discovered, to his surprise and delight, that he had a week or ten days remaining before his inoculation shots had to be boosted. So he wanted to go somewhere to use them up. Or the same observer might say that the President wants to go down in history as the first man to teach the Jews and the Arabs how to live together in tranquility, guided by the best Christian principles. Then there is the suggestion that the prime reason for the trip is to collect the laundry Prof. Kissinger left in this general area last week.

There are, of course, sterner answers from critics of the President. We are here, they insist, because Washington has become a sizzling kitchen and he cannot stand the heat. We are here, they add, because Leon Jaworski, Sam Ervin and Peter Rodino are there. We are here because the unanswered or evaded subpenas are there. We are here, far from the madding crowd of prosecutors and protesters, because here he's the biggest man in the world, filling the center of the world stage once more to act out, as only he and his adept hired hand Kissinger can, the roles of peacemakers extraordinaire. The Middle East is 50 light years from the Watergate war.

So, it all depends. What we started out to say was that we're a pretty awesome task force as we plunge into lands no President has ever ventured. Could you imagine Calvin Coolidge engaged in any nice dialogue with King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and his ministers Umar Al-Saqqaf and Ismail Fahni, a few months after millions of rationed and irrational American motorists were denouncing those oilianaires?

Only a handful of persons knows the number of planes and the immense scope of the logistics involved in this mission. I am not one of the handful, understandably, but it's easy to generalize that an incursion of this magnitude involves millions of dollars in equipment and services.

The flagship of our armada, Air Force One, the jet that carries the President and Mrs. Nixon, Dr. Kissinger, Gen. Alexander Haig, Maj. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, Deputy Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, Alfred L. Atherton Jr., who is the State Department's Middle East "brain," and Ron Ziegler, is the most sophisticated vehicle in all history. It is the last word in Boeing 707's, the VC-137C, number 27000, one of only five such aircraft ever built. A handout from the U.S. Air Force's Special Missions Division of the 89th Military Air-Lift Wing, based at Andrews Air Force Base just outside of Washington, modestly understates that number 27000, also called "The Spirit of '76," is "outfitted to meet the President's every need while traveling."

That's an unconscionable understatement. The plane houses a startling communications system that can link the President instantly to the White House, Pentagon, the Strategic Air Command, NATO, all the ships at sea and the hot line to the Kremlin.

From that plane he could send the signal that initiates or retaliates in a thermonuclear war that would cost countless millions of lives and catastrophic property losses. It carries many other mind-boggling instrumentation ranging all the way from radarscopes and inertial navigation systems to the accommodations used by the premier Air Force chef and by Pat Nixon's hairdresser.

But Air Force One is only one of the vessels of this flotilla. There are two similar "back up" 707's that carry Secret Service agents, White House secretaries, communications equipment that will be needed on the ground, the gifts the President will distribute to heads of state during the trip, bottled water, and special food—such as the cottage and ketchup which are the elixir of the diet-minded President and First Lady.

Beyond that, there is at least one C-141 cargo jet, carrying the enormous armor-plated and bullet-proof Presidential limousine and Secret Service cars that convoy it through the throngs. And, last and surely least, the chartered TWA and Pan Am press planes, carrying 180 members of the (ugh) media. More anon on those scoundrels.

NEW YORK (AP) — Trouble is something you seldom get just a little of. When it arrives in your life you may expect more to follow until troubles are holding a convention in your life. Ask a stock broker.

The comptroller of the currency, James E. Smith, has just ruled that banks can continue to offer securities to their customers, in direct competition with brokers, who already feel they are at the bottom of a heap.

It would take too long to list these difficulties, but they include a loss of customer confidence and business, high interest rates that draw money from the market, and a general inability to remain consistently profitable.

The latest action, therefore, seems like just another problem piled upon the others, but it may be far more than it. It pits two entire industries against each other, and there is no question which is stronger. Banking is.

Banks have the assets, the flexibility, the marketing power, the personnel, the accounting techniques, the outlets. Far more important, they already have the customers. Almost everyone uses a bank.

How simple it is therefore, for a bank that already provides a dozen customer services to simply offer another one, as some already have. How simple to transfer $50 from the checking account to the stock account.

The brokers, on the other hand, don't have nearly the marketbasket of products or the financial power of the banks, although this perhaps is not a critical criterion. Banks are restricted geographically, brokers are not. Nevertheless, a comparison of Merrill Lynch, the biggest broker, with Bank of America, the biggest bank, is revealing. The former reported assets of $3.7 billion on March 30, 1973. At the close of 1973, Bank of America had $49.4 billion in resources.

If the comptrollers' ruling stands, the operations of mutual funds are likely to be hurt the most. Already their assets are down to less than $45 billion after reaching close to $60 billion.

They contend that the stock activity of commercial banks violates the Glass-Steagall Act of 1933.

That act was designed to limit stock sales by banks to individuals, but Smith—as did his predecessor—maintains that no existing legislation bars the activities in dispute.

Park Site Reservations Made Easier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reserving a campsite at 21 different national parks will soon be as easy as reaching for your telephone.

A National Park Service spokesman said Wednesday that last year's successful experiment with campsite reservations is being expanded to cover some 9,500 campsites.

Beginning Saturday, the reservations will be accepted both by telephone and mail through a computerized system managed by Park Reservation Service Inc., a new corporation awarded a five-year contract. These reservations will be effective at the parks starting July 1.

Campers must pay a $2 fee to reserve a campsite and also must pay the standard National Parks campsite rental, ranging from $1 to $4 a night.

Unreserved campsites will still be assigned at the parks on a first-come-first-served basis, the spokesman said.

Reservations can be made by telephoning the toll-free number 800-553-8425 or the tollcharge number 319-365-4348.

By writing to Park Reservation System, P.O. Box 1976, Cedar Rapids, Iowa 52406 or to any of 21 parks in the reservation system. The applicant should not send payment with this request; he will be asked to pay when the reservation is assigned, by return mail.

Pretty Plants Taken By Thief

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Joanna Williams, 78, didn't know the identity of the pretty green plants she so carefully tended. But police say they bet the person who stole them did.

"I was just waiting for them to bloom to find out what they were when someone stole all of my plants," Mrs. Williams said Wednesday after learning she had been a marijuana farmer.

Mrs. Williams said the plants were left behind by a young tenant who moved.

"Kid Baseball" at Ted Lewis Park was ready to shift into high gear. Action was set in three leagues, Mosquito, Little League, and Pony League.

A Civil Defense alert was expected in the city Monday afternoon as part of a nationwide program to test emergency planning. The nationwide plan was to be based on a mock air-raid attack against more than 40 key cities including Columbus. Two local plants were to sound two long blasts of their whistles when the alert was first received.

The Cincinnati Reds, meanwhile, rested in sixth place in the National League, "their usual niche."

More than 70 high school students from all parts of Ohio, including two from Circleville, combined musical training and recreation at the annual Summer Music Clinic sponsored at Delaware by Ohio Wesleyan University Department of Music.

Penn Central Faces Repair Demand

Councilman Charles Hollman called the tracks the "biggest potential cause of tragedy in Loveland."

Council said it was considering blocking all trains through the city until repairs are made.

Speaking Of Your Health

Our 5-year-old daughter has had two convulsions in a year. Both occurred when her fever rose above 102.

They terrified us and even though the doctor has assured us that we have nothing to worry about, we still do.

Mrs. A.J., Wash.

Dear Mrs. J.:

A convulsion is indeed a terrifying experience for parents to watch.

The fact that your doctor does not believe that these convulsions indicate serious trouble should be comforting.

It is not unusual for perfectly healthy children to have a so-called "seizure" when their temperature is elevated. It simply means that the child's vulnerability for convulsions is greater at that time.

Brain wave tests will show the absence of any brain damage.

These fever-induced convulsions can be controlled with medication and sponge baths to quickly lower the body temperature.

Your own anxiety should not be transmitted to your child.

What is the difference between a

High Society

By JIM BISHOP

We were to be a classless society. This was the great social advantage when the Colonies divorced themselves from George III and his court of dukes, earls and barons. The titled folk had been the appointed elite; everyone else, even a bank president, was considered contemptible because he was "in trade."

This federation of states was to be different—no titles, no autocrats of society; just a paradise of promise where any boy could become President.

It isn't like that. When I was a cub reporter, there was a little blue book called "The Social Register." For all of me, it is still being published. Often, when there was a marriage, a murder or a death the city editor told us to check the names in "the blue book" first. These were special people.

Kip Rhinelander was in it. He married a black girl who, he insisted at the annulment hearing, pretended that she was a purebred American Indian and executed a war dance around the marriage bed. The progeny of Commodore Vanderbilt were listed, even though the old man was not above thievery in manipulating the stock market.

The Donahues were in it; they were a wing of the Woolworth family, whose claim to fame was that the patriarch made millions selling two-penny items for a nickel or a dime. One of the grandsons was arrested for committing an indecency on the Mexican army, which was parading below his hotel balcony.

"The Social Register" notion, I was certain, would die of boredom. The members, as a productive class, summered in Long Island and wintered at Palm Beach. Their expensive daughters, called debutantes, were primed and petted like blooded fillies for "coming-out parties."

As in many other monumental matters, I was wrong in this one. The "society" idea did not die. It flourished. You will find it alive and well in cities big and small throughout the United States of America. You are "in," or you are "out." Ironically, being "in" kept many rich men out of European society, but got them "in" at diverse places like Detroit, Dubuque and Denver.

In countries such as France, Spain and Italy, where there are no kings and no courts, a few elderly gentlemen are referred to as dukes, counts, or, with a curtsy, "Your highness."

Deal, New Jersey, for example, was considered an enclave of society. The town had two golf courses—one for Christians, one for Jews. The same grass, the same sea breezes, blessed all the fairways. Bob Considerine was the only columnist who was a token member of both.

hereditary and a congenital disease? Miss L.L., S.D.

Dear Miss L.:

A congenital condition is one that exists from the time of birth. It is acquired some time during the developmental period in the womb. Some infectious diseases like German measles may interfere with the normal growth of the fetus. Toxic drugs, too, can be responsible for congenital malformation.

A hereditary disease is one that is transmitted from parents, grandparents and ancestors. Such a tendency is passed from generation to generation through the chromosomes and the genes. Otosclerosis, a special type of deafness, is an example of a hereditary disease.

During the past decade, a vast amount of scientific information has been accumulated about both congenital and hereditary diseases. With genetic counselling, proper vaccination and careful supervision of the use of drugs, many hereditary and congenital conditions can be avoided.

Grosse Point, Fort Lauderdale, La Jolla nourished their special breeds of sleek paunchy men and overdressed ladies. Once, we even had streets which were social alleys—Fifth Avenue, Park Avenue, Lake Shore Drive, and certain lakesites in Minnesota.

The exclusive country club became the natural refuge of these people because they could appoint committees which could blackball average citizens from membership. This tended to make the group "exclusive."

Newspaper editors lent their support because many of the elite idlers were also big advertisers. The paper had a society editor, even though no one could define "society" or its prerogatives. The most formidable of society editors was a fat imperious named Maury Paul. He wrote under the name of Cholly Knickerbocker.

Everybody who was anybody studied the society pages of The New York Times and the obituaries. If a marriageable daughter was mentioned, or a small photo published, the family jumped a notch on the social ladder and sometimes received invitations for a weekend on J.P. Morgan's yacht "Corsair." Grandpa's obituary notice was measured in inches of type; the more inches, the more important the family.

The Times published photos of Negro brides in its society section. Openhousing laws have brought wealthy minority groups living under pure slate roofs in exclusive areas. The social whirl today does not consist of aging playboys who inherited their standing. Little by little, the class distinction, coveted by so many who deny their unending ambition for prestige, is being drowned by a new society of current accomplishment.

Who knows? The day may come when Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish will invite Mr. Toots Shor to a party. Or—happy thought!—Toots may invite Mrs. Fish.

French President Becomes Guide

PARIS (AP) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing turned tour guide, showing a 10-year-old schoolgirl around the presidential palace for more than an hour.

The girl, Blandine Jannet, wrote the president asking him to help her write a school paper on the 18th Century Elysee Palace.

"Come round and see me," the president replied, according to aides.

On Wednesday, Blandine arrived at the palace and the president took her on a grand tour, including a visit to his personal office.

A Page Of Opinion

Summer Tourists Rolling

There has been a visible uplift in spirits among entrepreneurs at summer resort communities as a result of the Memorial Day experience, when the number of tourists on the road was regarded as highly satisfactory. In June, with the closing of schools, families start their summer hegiras in earnest.

It should surprise no one if this summer is no exception. There is no reason why it should be.

Vacation long ago became a year-round thing in the United States. Some take theirs in summer, some in winter, the remainder at other seasons. While many of the accommodations are seasonal, they, too, are preparing for the next wave of guests in periods when they are closed down.

Summer vacation spots are not geared for the onslaught, but those which operate in winter are preparing for a record number of guests when they take over several months from now.

Nixon's Trip

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

WITH THE PRESIDENT—We are an armada no conqueror of ages past could possibly comprehend. We sail high over strange lands, over hooded peoples who may marvel at the long white plumes we string along the blue dome of their heavens. We thunder from point to point at almost the speed of sound. Some of the people riding or trudging in camel trains miles below us may beseech Allah to give them the answer to this puzzling visitation of our aerial fleet. Chances are that they never heard of us. Nor want to.

Some of the political observers in America and elsewhere are asking the same question: Why are we here?

The answers depend on the nature of the questioner. This federation of states was to be different—no titles, no autocrats of society; just a paradise of promise where any boy could become President.

It isn't like that. When I was a cub reporter, there was a little blue book called "The Social Register." For all of me, it is still being published. Often, when there was a marriage, a murder or a death the city editor told us to check the names in "the blue book" first. These were special people.

Kip Rhinelander was in it. He married a black girl who, he insisted at the annulment hearing, pretended that she was a purebred American Indian and executed a war dance around the marriage bed. The progeny of Commodore Vanderbilt were listed, even though the old man was not above thievery in manipulating the stock market.

The Donahues were in it; they were a wing of the Woolworth family, whose claim to fame was that the patriarch made millions selling two-penny items for a nickel or a dime. One of the grandsons was arrested for committing an indecency on the Mexican army, which was parading below his hotel balcony.

"The Social Register" notion, I was certain, would die of boredom. The members, as a productive class, summered in Long Island and wintered at Palm Beach. Their expensive daughters, called debutantes, were primed and petted like blooded fillies for "coming-out parties."

As in many other monumental matters, I was wrong in this one. The "society" idea did not die. It flourished. You will find it alive and well in cities big and small throughout the United States of America. You are "in," or you are "out." Ironically, being in "trade" kept many rich men out of European society, but got them "in" at diverse places like Detroit, Dubuque and Denver.

In countries such as France, Spain and Italy, where there are no kings and no courts, a few elderly gentlemen are referred to as dukes, counts, or, with a curtsy, "Your highness."

Deal, New Jersey, for example, was considered an enclave of society. The town had two golf courses—one for Christians, one for Jews. The same grass, the same sea breezes, blessed all the fairways. Bob Considine was the only columnist who was a token member of both.

Grosse Point, Fort Lauderdale, La Jolla nourished their special breeds of sleek paunchy men and overressed ladies. Once, we even had streets which were social alleys—Fifth Avenue, Park Avenue, Lake Shore Drive, and certain lakesides in Minnesota.

The exclusive country club became the natural refuge of these people because they could appoint committees which could blackball average citizens from membership. This tended to make the group "exclusive."

Newspaper editors lent their support because many of the elite idlers were also big advertisers. The paper had a society editor, even though no one could define "society" or its prerogatives. The most formidable of society editors was a fat imperiposity named Maury Paul. He wrote under the name of Cholly Knickerbocker.

Everybody who was anybody studied the society pages of The New York Times and the obituaries. If a marriageable daughter was mentioned, or a small photo published, the family jumped a notch on the social ladder and sometimes received invitations for a weekend on J.P. Morgan's yacht "Corsair." Grandpa's obituary notice was measured in inches of type; the more inches, the more important the family.

The Times published photos of Negro brides in its society section. Openhousing laws have brought wealthy minority groups living under pure slate roofs in exclusive areas. The social whirl today does not consist of aging playboys who inherited their standing. Little by little, the class distinction, coveted by so many who deny their unending ambition for prestige, is being drowned by a new society of current accomplishment.

Who knows? The day may come when Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish will invite Mr. Toots Shor to a party. Or—happy thought!—Toots may invite Mrs. Fish.

French President Becomes Guide

PARIS (AP) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing turned tour guide, showing a 10-year-old schoolgirl around the presidential palace for more than an hour.

The girl, Blandine Jannest, wrote the president asking him to help her write a school paper on the 18th Century Elysee Palace.

"Come round and see me," the president replied, according to aides.

On Wednesday, Blandine arrived at the palace and the president took her on a grand tour, including a visit to his personal office.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

It may be too chilly for swimming, but it's just right for reading. If you're planning a trip downtown, come into the library and pick out a few books for the kids.

Animals? Yes, we have animal stories. Do you remember the beautifully drawn horses in C. W. Anderson books from your own childhood? Billy and Blaze are still popular with the younger generation; well written stories never lose their appeal. Black Beauty is still the most popular book among Circleville readers.

Clarence is a beagle pup with only one problem; he is affectionate to a fault. An intruder bent on stealing silver is welcomed eagerly in "Clarence and the Burglar" by Patricia Lauber.

Lassie is still available too, in paper, hardback, and now in picture book form.

Famine Workers Fight Time

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of tons of grain are pouring into drought-ravaged West Africa as famine relief workers fight against time.

The major concern is the rainy season which annually washes out the primitive network of dirt roads in the sunbaked region.

Thousands of near-starving nomad and peasant refugees are being cut off in remote areas by the rains which may make costly airlifts of food necessary to avert mass starvation.

The irony is that the rain so badly needed to grow food between late June and September is also one of the major obstacles to relief efforts.

The goal is to get enough food stockpiled in remote settlements of the stricken "famine zone" before the rains make transport of food impossible.

The rains last year severely disrupted relief efforts but were too sparse in most areas to produce crops.

The six-year sub-Saharan drought, one of the worst in African history, has dealt a particularly hard blow to Senegal and Mauritania, and landlocked Mali, Upper Volta, Niger and Chad.

Refugees in all six countries have become almost totally dependent on food from abroad for survival and squalid makeshift refugee camps have sprung up across the region.

Relief workers say the drought's impact has been hardest on Mali and Niger which rank among the poorest nations in the world.

Food distribution centers in isolated outposts such as Nema in Mauritania, Timbuktu in Mali and Agadez in Niger need enough food to feed drought refugees until the hope for harvests at year's end.

"We are gravely concerned about the situation," says Trevor Page, who heads the office of Sahelian Relief Operations for the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. Page said in an interview some 700,000 tons of food, more than a third of it from the United States, has been committed this year to the six nations worst hit by the lingering dry spell.

The food is shipped from granaries in the United States and Europe to West Africa's coastal ports and moved by truck and train to the stricken nations, most of them landlocked, in the interior.

The major ports being used in the massive emergency relief operation are in Senegal, Ivory Coast, Ghana, Dahomey and Nigeria.

Page estimates that of the 700,000 tons of food committed to the region, roughly 350,000 tons have reached the needy areas, 150,000 tons are awaiting unloading at the ports and another 200,000 tons have yet to arrive in West Africa.

Page said his organization hopes to minimize the need for airlifts, which cost about $600 per plane per hour of flying time, by moving grain into the stricken region by truck across the Sahara through Algeria.

Cats are favorite subjects for children's books. "Whiskers" will strike a familiar chord if your cat climbs in grocery bags, naps in underwear drawers, leaps like a trapeze artist, and cuddles with the children. "The Big Book of Cats" by Gladys Cook is good for identification. The oversized pictures give a real feeling of life. The depth of color makes you want to stroke them.

Boys like fish stories, and we have all kinds. "How To" books on fishing and tropical fish are especially popular as are books on sharks, eels, and whales. "The How and Why Wonder Book of Fish" has a good selection of fish from all bodies of water. Can fish breathe out of water? Mudskippers and lung fish from Africa can. Lung fish are believed to be the last living link between man and fish.

Birds come into their share of attention from children, too. "The Bird Book," a beginning reader, has bright pictures and just a few words on each page.

Gerbils, turtles and mice are featured in "A Zoo For You" by the Lubells. The authors' gerbil has many interesting habits. It drums on the floor with its hind legs when the cat comes too close.

To get it all together we have a very informative new book: "What Can She Be? A Veterinarian." This is an exceptional book because of the high quality of the photographs and because it is one of the few books showing professional women on the job. Dr. Penny works at a large animal hospital where she is shown using an x-ray machine, a stethoscope, a microscope, and operating room equipment. A rewarding and fascinating book for boys and girls.

Remember! During July summer reading program will take place every weekday morning from 10 to 11:30 a.m. There will be crafts and movies as well as a story hour. Plan to pre-register your school age child now.

Pickaway County Garden Club Holds Flower Show, Meeting

TOP AWARDS—Mrs. Charles Huston, Route 3, Circleville, shown on the left, and Mrs. Winferd Dumm, Route 1, Laurelville were top winners in the council of Pickaway County Garden Clubs' Annual Flower Show held Wednesday at Derby. In the artistic arrangements class Mrs. Huston used a horn placed on a board cut in the shape of Ohio with roses and foliage backed with a treble staff of curved stems entered in the class, State Fair. Mrs. Dumm won her Best of Show in the specimen class for delphinium blossoms.

Artistic arrangements in the small flower show held Tuesday during the regular June meeting of Pickaway County Garden Club at First Presbyterian Church in Circleville attested to the success of workshops held in the past few weeks.

Mrs. Howard Davies explained the show classes were based on techniques learned in the workshops conducted by Mrs. Schubert Measamer, Mrs. Frank Gans and Mrs. Bernard Savay. Co-chairmen for the show were Mrs. Davies and Miss Ruth Montelius.

Many beginner arrangers entered the first five classes, all showing good design skills under the designated titles. Several entries carried out the triangular design combining line material with roses or other blossoms. A striking vertical arrangement was enhanced by the use of a tall clear glass container filled with black pebbles.

The arrangements stressing line, utilized good color combinations and interesting lines of curved stems. Wood was very effectively used with clematis, iris, peony or other blossoms and foliage.

Class VI, open to beginners and accomplished arrangers alike, also displayed well executed designs including a small arrangement for a coffee table, a mass, free style design and an abstract.

Horticulture classes, open to all members, showed good care and grooming. Roses including old fashioned cultivars, daylilies, purple yarrow, oak leaf hydrangea, lily, and many more cut specimens and houseplants were discussed and scored by judges, Mrs. Theodore Huston and Mrs. John Eshelman.

Mrs. Schubert Measamer, another judge, discussed classes one through five of artistic design and judge, Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, discussed class six.

Prior to discussion of show entries, a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Theodore Huston, club president. Guests, Catherine Gibson and Mrs. McKenzie were welcomed.

Mrs. Huston displayed the national award received by the club for Ecology 9:30 program on the local radio station. This award is presented by National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc., which covers all the states and District of Columbia. Members were thanked for work on the program and especially Miriam Barnhart.

Kingwood Center in Mansfield will hold a daylily show on June 13th. Entries and visits to the show were urged. Members having potholders to sew were asked to complete them as new crafts and other work is to begin.

A thank you note was read from Franklin Garden Club for the gold plate presented to them by Pickaway Club on its 50th anniversary. It was said that the gift would probably be used in Franklin's future flower show as a Best of Show award.

The next lesson on arranging will be held July 2nd at the home of Mrs. Robert Rickerd, 582 Sycamore Drive. Materials for work will be weathered wood and daylilies.

The July meeting will be 1 p.m., on the 9th at the home of Mrs. Darrell Hatfield, Route 1, Stoutsville. Members are asked to bring folding chairs. The program will be "What's In The Trees" by Mrs. John Eshelman and Mrs. Luther Bower. The slate of officer nominations for the coming year will be presented.

Potted begonias, obtained by Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, were given to each show entrant, to judges and those who held workshops. Mrs. Willson Leist won the door prize, a rose bush donated by Jack Goode Nursery.

Hostesses, Mrs. Jack Frantz, chairman; Mrs. Carson Horton, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mrs. Oscar Root, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson and Mrs. Thomas Crawford, served punch and cookies from a table decorated with yellow carnations and glossy mahonia foliage.

'Sowing Seeds' Program For Salem Church Women

Women of Salem United Methodist Church met recently at the church for the June meeting with 12 members and one guest, Mrs. Nona Hankins, present.

Mrs. Delbert Poling, vice president, led the program using the theme "Sowing Seeds." Mrs. Poling read "As Ye Sow, So Shall Ye Reap." The reading told that every home should have at least two books, the Holy Bible, telling of God's creations and a seed catalog, showing the proof of them. She said "We are planting seeds every day with our thoughts, words and actions which are the seeds to blossom tomorrow. Whether we harvest fragrant flowers or weeds is up to us from what kind of word seeds we are sowing."

Each member read a quotation of Bible verse pertaining to planting and growing of seeds. Mrs. Donald Minor read "A Garden We Can All Grow" and Mrs. Poling read "His One Mistake." Mrs. Ralph Ankrom read "Beatitudes Of A Gardener." Mrs. Vera Miller accompanied the singing of the hymn "Bringing In The Sheaves." Mrs. Poling closed the program with a reading "Whe God Made A Father" and led members in prayer.

Mrs. Darl McAfee, president, presided at the business meeting. It was reported 40 sick calls had been made and the flower fund gift was received by Mrs. Ankrom. Mrs. McAfee read a letter from the Portsmouth District president reporting on the spring meeting held in April.

Members voted to make a contribution of money to a church youth camp at Blue Creek. Following a discussion members voted to discontinue the annual fish fry and chicken dinner for this year.

Games were conducted by Mrs. Jesse Hildenbrand and Mrs. Ankrom with prizes awarded to Mrs. McAfee and Mrs. Ira Barr.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

WHERE ECONOMY ORIGINATES

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Even In Family, 3's A Crowd

DEAR ABBY: I think my new husband (age 39) has more than a fatherly interest in my daughter. Lisa is 22. I am 45, but I look 35.

It all started when I invited Lisa to come along on our honeymoon to make her feel like "one of the family." She has been away at college, but now that she's graduated she is home, living with us.

Shortly after our honeymoon trip, my husband started taking Lisa out for lunch and buying her new clothes. Then I noticed that Lisa had lost interest in friends her own age. Maybe it's just my imagination, but I've seen some of the looks that have passed between them and I think something is going on.

I don't want to make a fool of myself, but I'd like to clear the air. I don't know how to bring this up with her. Should I question her? Or him? What if all of this is just in my mind?

NOT SURE

DEAR NOT: If you're not sure, don't question anybody. Keep your eyes open. If there is something to your suspicions, it will come out. In the meantime, you might ask Lisa if she ever considered having her own pad. Three's a crowd.

DEAR ABBY: This will probably throw you. My husband is the best! He's a good provider, we have a nice home, he loves our kids, and spends his time and money on the house and family. The problem is MY frustrations. Our sexual relationship has dwindled to practically nothing.

He gives me the usual goodbye and hello kisses, but they're completely without feeling. He never really holds me, or caresses me. He kisses me like I was his sister.

Should the honeymoon be over in 12 years? Maybe I'm oversexed, but I don't think so. I'd be happy with a once-a-week treat, but it doesn't happen. I'm no sex-bomb, so don't suggest that I meet him at the front door with a see-through apron.

I mentioned a counselor once, but he couldn't understand why he needed one. Sometimes I'm so frustrated I could scream. I don't want to hurt his masculine ego. Must I learn to live with this, or is there a solution?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Don't worry about hurting his masculine ego. Tell him what you've told me. But also ask him if he thinks you're doing your part in the "treat" department.

DEAR ABBY: I met a man four months ago, and I fell-but hard. He guessed my age to be "about 65," but I am 72. I guessed his age to be "about 70," but I really don't know how old he is. He acts crazy about me and is giving me a rush. There are a lot of younger women after him and I am afraid if I tell him my age I will lose him.

If we should ever go for a marriage license do I have to give my right age? Please help me, Abby. I want this man. He makes me feel like sweet 16.

IN LOVE IN L.A.

DEAR IN: Forget about age. Yours and his. And don't mention it unless he does. Then it's truth and consequences.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of compulsive gamblers, compulsive talkers and compulsive overeaters, but is there such a thing as a compulsive worker? I think I'm one.

LOVES TO WORK

DEAR LOVES: To borrow a phrase from the philosopher James B. Goetz, "It's only work if you'd rather be doing something else."

LE Lunchroom Staff Attends Food Workshop

Four lunchroom staff members of the Logan Elm School District attended the 23rd Annual School Food Service Workshop at Miami University this week. Attending were lunchroom supervisor Mrs. Emmett Hinton, Mrs. Ernest Pennington, Mrs. Carl Agin and Mrs. Woodrow Dumm.

The workshop is sponsored jointly by the department of home economics at Miami and the State Department of Education.

Program topics included "What's Happening in Food Service", "Nutrition and the Type A Lunch", "The World Food Crisis" plus demonstrations in poultry, meat and desserts.

The new computer record-keeping program which will be implemented in the fall was also discussed during the workshop activities.

Metzenbaum Backs Radio Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, voted with the majority Thursday as the Senate passed 44-42 a bill authorizing the Federal Communications Commission to require all new radios costing more than $15 to be equipped to receive both AM and FM broadcasts.

Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, voted "Present."

Judge Radcliffe Speaks At Rotary Club Meeting

ROTARY SPEAKER—Charles Hosterman, right, is shown introducing Judge Gerald Radcliffe of Chillicothe to Rotarians. Judge Radcliffe spoke at the weekly meeting Thursday on the South Central Regional Detention Center to be built just outside Chillicothe to serve six counties.

Judge Gerald Radcliffe of Chillicothe was welcomed Thursday as the guest speaker for the weekly meeting of the Circleville Rotary Club. Judge Radcliffe is the probate and juvenile judge in Ross County.

Much of the judge's talk involved the South Central Regional Detention Center which is to be built a few miles out of the Chillicothe city limits on land donated by the Optimist Club for that purpose.

The center will cost $535,835 but the cost will be shared by six counties with additional financial assistance coming from the state and federal governments.

Pickaway County's share of the cost burden is 29 per cent with other money coming from the remaining counties in proportionate shares.

The center will be equipped to house only 15 males and five females and will employ 14 full-time staff members to maintain and instruct those in their charge. Adequate facilities to properly care for juveniles is a problem at present in Pickaway County as well as in the other areas to be served by the center.

The Ross County Board of Education will employ one full-time instructor for the center.

Judge Radcliffe told Rotarians that he anticipated the center will be complete by next July. Locally, Ben Brian is a member of the Board of Trustees for the detention center.

Guests at the meeting held at the L-K Restaurant were Tom Tootle and Chet Ledford.

Kenley Players Premier With 'No, No, Nanette'

"No, No, Nanette", the musical hit of the Twenties which gave the current nostalgia fever a big boost, opens the 14th annual summer season of the Kenley Players at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Veterans Memorial, continuing through June 23.

Gale Gordon, Vicki Lawrence, Virginia Mayo, Kathleen Freeman and Ted Pritchard head the big singing and dancing cast of the Kenley production of the musical. The book is by Otto Harbach and Frank Mandel, with lyrics by Irving Caesar and Otto Harbach and music by Vincent Youmans.

The Kenley production is staged by Robert Audy, who staged the Kenley production of "George M", starring Joel Gray. Audy has directed numerous summer theater productions at the St. Louis Municipal Opera, Indianapolis Starlight Theater and others.

Robert Billing is musical director, with settings designed by Phillip Louis Rodzen. Supporting players include Laura Waterbury, Marianne Braun, Bill Biskup and Jane Turner. Producer John Kenley, who celebrates his golden anniversary in show business this year, recalls that he saw the original production of "No, No, Nanette" during its pre-Broadway run in Chicago in 1924. He was a member of the cast of "The Greenwich Village Follies" which was playing at a nearby theater. Louise Groody was the original star.

Performances, Tuesday through Saturday evenings, are at 8:30. Sunday curtain is at 7:30 p.m. Matinees are Saturday and Sunday at 2:45.

Davy Crockett Dies

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — David W. Crockett, 74, great-grandson of one of the heroes of the Alamo, died Monday. His great-grandfather, Davy Crockett, came to Texas from Tennessee and died in 1836 when a Mexican army under Gen. Santa Anna defeated Texas forces at the Battle of the Alamo.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Even In Family, 3's A Crowd

DEAR ABBY: I think my new husband (age 39) has more than a fatherly interest in my daughter, Lisa is 22. I am 45, but I look 35.

It all started when I invited Lisa to come along on our honeymoon to make her feel like "one of the family." She has been away at college, but now that she's graduated she is home, living with us.

Shortly after our honeymoon trip, my husband started taking Lisa out for lunch and buying her new clothes. Then I noticed that Lisa had lost interest in friends her own age. Maybe it's just my imagination, but I've seen some of the looks that have passed between them and I think something is going on.

I don't want to make a fool of myself, but I'd like to clear the air. I don't know how to bring this up with her. Should I question her? Or him? What if all of this is just in my mind?

NOT SURE

DEAR NOT: If you're not sure, don't question anybody. Keep your eyes open. If there is something to your suspicions, it will come out. In the meantime, you might ask Lisa if she ever considered having her own pad. Three's a crowd.

DEAR ABBY: This will probably throw you. My husband is the best! He's a good provider, we have a nice home, he loves our kids, and spends his time and money on the house and family. The problem is MY frustrations. Our sexual relationship has dwindled to practically nothing.

He gives me the usual goodbye and hello kisses, but they're completely without feeling. He never really holds me, or caresses me. He kisses me like I was his sister.

Should the honeymoon be over in 12 years? Maybe I'm oversexed, but I don't think so. I'd be happy with a once-a-week treat, but it doesn't happen. I'm no sex-bomb, so don't suggest that I meet him at the front door with a see-through apron.

I mentioned a counselor once, but he couldn't understand why he needed one. Sometimes I'm so frustrated I could scream. I don't want to hurt his masculine ego. Must I learn to live with this, or is there a solution?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Don't worry about hurting his masculine ego. Tell him what you've told me. But also ask him if he thinks you're doing your part in the "treat" department.

DEAR ABBY: I met a man four months ago, and I fell-but hard. He guessed my age to be "about 65," but I am 72. I guessed his age to be "about 70," but I really don't know how old he is. He acts crazy about me and is giving me a rush. There are a lot of younger women after him and I am afraid if I tell him my age I will lose him.

If we should ever go for a marriage license do I have to give my right age? Please help me, Abby. I want this man. He makes me feel like sweet 16.

IN LOVE IN L.A.

DEAR IN: Forget about age. Yours and his. And don't mention it unless he does. Then it's truth and consequences.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of compulsive gamblers, compulsive talkers and compulsive overeaters, but is there such a thing as a compulsive worker? I think I'm one.

LOVES TO WORK

DEAR LOVES: To borrow a phrase from the philosopher James B. Goetz, "It's only work if you'd rather be doing something else."

LE Lunchroom Staff Attends Food Workshop

Four lunchroom staff members of the Logan Elm School District attended the 23rd Annual School Food Service Workshop at Miami University this week. Attending were lunchroom supervisor Mrs. Emmett Hinton, Mrs. Ernest Pennington, Mrs. Carl Agin and Mrs. Woodrow Dumm.

The workshop is sponsored jointly by the department of home economics at Miami and the State Department of Education.

Program topics included "What's Happening in Food Service", "Nutrition and the Type A Lunch", "The World Food Crisis" plus demonstrations in poultry, meat and desserts.

The new computer record-keeping program which will be implemented in the fall was also discussed during the workshop activities.

Metzenbaum Backs Radio Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, voted with the majority Thursday as the Senate passed 44-42 a bill authorizing the Federal Communications Commission to require all new radios costing more than $15 to be equipped to receive both AM and FM broadcasts.

Sen Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, voted "Present."

Judge Radcliffe Speaks At Rotary Club Meeting

ROTARY SPEAKER—Charles Hosterman, right, is shown introducing Judge Gerald Radcliffe of Chillicothe to Rotarians. Judge Radcliffe spoke at the weekly meeting Thursday on the South Central Regional Detention Center to be built just outside Chillicothe to serve six counties.

Judge Gerald Radcliffe of Chillicothe was welcomed Thursday as the guest speaker for the weekly meeting of the Circleville Rotary Club. Judge Radcliffe is the probate and juvenile judge in Ross County.

Much of the judge's talk involved the South Central Regional Detention Center which is to be built a few miles out of the Chillicothe city limits on land donated by the Optimist Club for that purpose.

The center will cost $535,835 but the cost will be shared by six counties with additional financial assistance coming from the state and federal governments.

Pickaway County's share of the cost burden is 29 per cent with other money coming from the remaining counties in proportionate shares.

The center will be equipped to house only 15 males and five females and will employ 14 full-time staff members to maintain and instruct those in their charge. Adequate facilities to properly care for juveniles is a problem at present in Pickaway County as well as in the other areas to be served by the center.

The Ross County Board of Education will employ one full-time instructor for the center.

Judge Radcliffe told Rotarians that he anticipated the center will be complete by next July. Locally, Ben Brian is a member of the Board of Trustees for the detention center.

Guests at the meeting held at the L-K Restaurant were Tom Tootle and Chet Ledford.

Kenley Players Premier With 'No, No, Nanette'

"No, No, Nanette", the musical hit of the Twenties which gave the current nostalgia fever a big boost, opens the 14th annual summer season of the Kenley Players at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Veterans Memorial, continuing through June 23.

Gale Gordon, Vicki Lawrence, Virginia Mayo, Kathleen Freeman and Ted Pritchard head the big singing and dancing cast of the Kenley production of the musical. The book is by Otto Harbach and Frank Mandel, with lyrics by Irving Caesar and Otto Harbach and music by Vincent Youmans.

The Kenley production is staged by Robert Audy, who staged the Kenley production of "George M", starring Joel Gray. Audy has directed numerous summer theater productions at the St. Louis Municipal Opera, Indianapolis Starlight Theater and others.

Producer John Kenley, who celebrates his golden anniversary in show business this year, recalls that he saw the original production of "No, No, Nanette" during its pre-Broadway run in Chicago in 1924. He was a member of the cast of "The Greenwich Village Follies" which was playing at a nearby theater. Louise Groody was the original star.

Performances, Tuesday through Saturday evenings, are at 8:30. Sunday curtain is at 7:30 p.m. Matinees are Saturday and Sunday at 2:45.

When the jelly disappeared from the refrigerator, when a baseball shattered the window, when Mother discovered the stray cat sleeping in her washbasket . . . like a magnetic needle the accusing finger of my parents pointed toward me.

It's a crushing experience to get caught. But it can teach us a vital lesson. We soon discover a sense of responsibility and learn our obligation to others. Our true identity emerges.

The Church stands ready to help us learn responsibility. Through religious education youth today can still discover personal identity—while gaining a responsible view of man's obligations to God and to society.

Catholic Abortion Stand Under Fire

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Commonweal, an independent Catholic weekly which advocated many of the contemporary reforms in Roman Catholicism before they became realities, suggests the Church should temper its stance against abortion.

Catholics should "abandon their vain hopes for any kind of total legal ban on abortion" so as to join in a modified approach with other Christians and Jews to halt a mounting tide of abortion-on-demand, the weekly says.

In an editorial, it says that moderates of various religious bodies accept abortion in hardship cases such as rape, incest or badly damaged fetus, but not for casual reasons, and a common stand on those terms could be more effective.

"In a society as diverse as ours ... an absolute ban would be impossible as well as ill-advised, and the other members of any broad coalition could not conscientiously accept such a total ban," the weekly says.

"Working together, however, it would be possible for Catholics and others opposed to wholesale abortion to map a prudent course which would permit abortion only for serious cause ..."

The results would not be "all-or-nothing legislation" against abortion, but would curb the wholesale trend in such operations "save hundreds of thousands of lives and end the growing identification of the antiabortion cause with the right wing," the weekly says.

Commonweal, a lay-edited journal whose reformist views made it a bellwether to the Church changes launched by the Second Vatican Council of 1962-'65, devoted a recent issue to the abortion question.

Methodists Ease Abortion Stand

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — The West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church took a broader stand on the abortion issue Thursday, agreeing that there are other criteria than the mother's life to consider.

The position was supported about 2-1. A spokesman said it comes closer to the General Conference 1972 position that abortion is a matter between a woman and her physician.

The West Ohio Methodists' position also urges that abortion be dealt with as a medical question and called upon the United Methodist Church to help states remove the prohibition of abortion from the criminal code.

The prevailing position presented by the conference board of church and society contained an amendment which opposed indiscriminate abortion, or so-called abortion as a convenience following immoral conduct.

In its final session last year, the West Ohio Conference went on record opposing abortion under any circumstances except when a woman's life is endangered by pregnancy.

The abortion issue was the final matter to come before Thursday's business session. The week-long conference is scheduled to end Friday morning, with the announcement of pastoral appointments.

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley ordained 38 elders and 57 deacons in ceremonies Thursday night.

Earlier in the day, the conference treasurer, the Rev. Charles Farthing, reported that Methodists in the conference donated $36.1 million during the last year, a 4 per cent increase from the previous year.

In addition, the conference contributed $216,000 to the West Ohio Tornado Disaster Fund for southwestern Ohio, the Rev. Mr. Farthing said.

He said the increase represented a per capita raise from $86 to $91.

Freshmen Solons Face Choice

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "It's been a difficult year to enter national politics," is the way one of the three freshmen congressmen sitting in judgment on President Nixon describes the job.

"I certainly didn't anticipate that I'd be in this position," said Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine.

Cohen, along with House Judiciary Committee colleagues Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and Trent Lott, R-Miss., was elected to Congress 17 months ago when most voters were paying little attention to the bungled Watergate burglary.

The three were toddlers when Richard Nixon was first elected to Congress almost 28 years ago. Now they are in

Appeal Dismissal Of Electrical Suit

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The Butler County Citizens Committee Wednesday appealed the dismissal of their suit to block the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. from running steel towers and transmission wires from Cincinnati to Seven Mile.

Butler Common Pleas Court Judge Fred B. Cramer dismissed the suit saying the 247 property owners still could protest when the utility seeks to acquire land through eminent domain.

The property owners claim the lines would harm the esthetics of the area. The appeal was made to the First Ohio District Court of Appeals.

the center of the political crisis of the century, the possible impeachment of the President.

No matter which way their judgments fall — and they said in interviews they haven't decided yet — they are bound to make some enemies.

"You always face a dilemma when you vote on a key piece of legislation," Cohen said. "Do you vote your district or do you vote with your own judgment?"

Cohen, 33, is regarded as a probable swing vote in any close decision on impeachment. Rep. Holtzman, a liberal feminist from Brooklyn with a law degree from Harvard, is 32. Lott, also 32, represents a Mississippi district that gave President Nixon 87 per cent of its vote in the last election.

Cohen already has angered some Republican colleagues by casting the deciding vote for informing President Nixon that he failed to comply with the committee's subpoena for tapes of 42 conversations.

Rep. Holtzman defeated the dean of the House, 84-year-old Rep. Emanuel Celler. Although she often has disagreed with the President's policies, she said of her role in the impeachment inquiry: "This is a sad experience for me."

"I much would have preferred that no question be raised on the integrity, honesty and innocence of the President of the United States. We like to think you can disagree, but that it's a disagreement on honest judgments on what's good for the country."

Lott, who has a picture of himself with the President hanging in his office calls Nixon, "the best president we've had in my lifetime." He said his constituents are tired of hearing talk of Watergate and impeachment.

"I know they're sick of it," Lott said. "When I go home, it's not what they ask me about. Their interests are more personal — the money market, veterans legislation and educational benefits, the highways."

"In a society as diverse as ours ... an absolute ban would be impossible as well as ill-advised, and the other members of any broad coalition could not conscientiously accept such a total ban," the weekly says.

"Working together, however, it would be possible for Catholics and others opposed to wholesale abortion to map a prudent course which would permit abortion only for serious cause ..."

The results would not be "all-or-nothing legislation" against abortion, but would curb the wholesale trend in such operations "save hundreds of thousands of lives and end the growing identification of the antiabortion cause with the right wing," the weekly says.

Commonweal, a lay-edited journal whose reformist views made it a bellwether to the Church changes launched by the Second Vatican Council of 1962-65, devoted a recent issue to the abortion question.

Methodists Ease Abortion Stand

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — The West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church took a broader stand on the abortion issue Thursday, agreeing that there are other criteria than the mother's life to consider.

The position was supported about 2-1. A spokesman said it comes closer to the General Conference 1972 position that abortion is a matter between a woman and her physician.

The West Ohio Methodists' position also urges that abortion be dealt with as a medical question and called upon the United Methodist Church to help states remove the prohibition of abortion from the criminal code.

The prevailing position presented by the conference board of church and society contained an amendment which opposed indiscriminate abortion, or so-called abortion as a convenience following immoral conduct.

In its final session last year, the West Ohio Conference went on record opposing abortion under any circumstances except when a woman's life is endangered by pregnancy.

The abortion issue was the final matter to come before Thursday's business session. The week-long conference is scheduled to end Friday morning, with the announcement of pastoral appointments.

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley ordained 38 elders and 57 deacons in ceremonies Thursday night.

Earlier in the day, the conference treasurer, the Rev. Charles Farthing, reported that Methodists in the conference donated $36.1 million during the last year, a 4 per cent increase from the previous year.

In addition, the conference contributed $216,000 to the West Ohio Tornado Disaster Fund for southwestern Ohio, the Rev. Mr. Farthing said.

He said the increase represented a per capita raise from $86 to $91.

Freshmen Solons Face Choice

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "It's been a difficult year to enter national politics," is the way one of the three freshmen congressmen sitting in judgment on President Nixon describes the job.

"I certainly didn't anticipate that I'd be in this position," said Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine.

Cohen, along with House Judiciary Committee colleagues Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and Trent Lott, R-Miss., was elected to Congress 17 months ago when most voters were paying little attention to the bungled Watergate burglary.

The three were toddlers when Richard Nixon was first elected to Congress almost 28 years ago. Now they are in the center of the political crisis of the century, the possible impeachment of the President.

No matter which way their judgments fall — and they said in interviews they haven't decided yet — they are bound to make some enemies.

"You always face a dilemma when you vote on a key piece of legislation," Cohen said. "Do you vote your district or do you vote with your own judgment?"

Cohen, 33, is regarded as a probable swing vote in any close decision on impeachment. Rep. Holtzman, a liberal feminist from Brooklyn with a law degree from Harvard, is 32. Lott, also 32, represents a Mississippi district that gave President Nixon 87 per cent of its vote in the last election.

Cohen already has angered some Republican colleagues by casting the deciding vote for informing President Nixon that he failed to comply with the committee's subpoena for tapes of 42 conversations.

Rep. Holtzman defeated the dean of the House, 84-year-old Rep. Emanuel Celler. Although she often has disagreed with the President's policies, she said of her role in the impeachment inquiry: "This is a sad experience for me."

"I much would have preferred that no question be raised on the integrity, honesty and innocence of the President of the United States. We like to think you can disagree, but that it's a disagreement on honest judgments on what's good for the country."

Lott, who has a picture of himself with the President hanging in his office calls Nixon, "the best president we've had in my lifetime." He said his constituents are tired of hearing talk of Watergate and impeachment.

"I know they're sick of it," Lott said. "When I go home, it's not what they ask me about. Their interests are more personal — the money market, veterans legislation and educational benefits, the highways."

Squeeze On Cattle Profits Steadied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The profit squeeze on cattlemen is becoming a political issue in Washington, with Midwestern members of Congress taking an active role.

Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo., an experienced cattleman who sold his interests this spring for $4 million, and Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y., a novice in farm-to-market studies, held a breakfast designed to give a cram course in the beef-and-pork price slump to urban colleagues, particularly from Peyser's Northeast delegations.

Two urbanites showed up, besides Peyser, with about 30 farm-bloc members to hear from five farmers and feeders from Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska who, as Litton said, "are not lobbyists or even major producers; they're just fighting for their lives."

The day before, eight angry Republicans met with Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz. They pressed for a ban on meat imports, opening up Canadian markets, providing loans to cattlemen and leaning on meatpackers, wholesalers and retailers.

"We just beat hell out of him in that room," Republican Sen. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma acknowledged afterwards.

Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, a Republican, complained that the Democrats "are getting ready to snatch the ball," or steal the GOP's issue.

At the time, Dole's probable opponent in this fall's senatorial race, Rep. Bill Roy, was joining in the burgeoning movement to co-sponsor the credit-relief bills. Members of both parties echoed the "stop-the-imports" demands of legislators who normally denounce any "interference" with "free market forces."

As Dole noted, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., whose constituents are hurting as much as Dole's, took part in a Thursday meeting of cattle-state senators on the problem.

Nixon's new economic chief, Kenneth Rush, meanwhile, was announcing a Monday White House conference of congressmen, ranchers, packers, processors and supermarket-chain executives. That gave a boost to the market, which has been dropping steadily for 13 of the last 15 weeks.

The powerful chairmen of the two congressional agriculture committees then issued a lengthy joint statement. The chairmen said they had no solutions but urged meat-industry organizations and Butz's farm experts to come to them, to reason together on the problems.

Both parties appear to be aiming their save-the-cattlemen pitches at middlemen's profits as the source of the problem, since blocking imports seems now unlikely.

GOING TO COURT—U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell walks from his home in northwest Washington, D.C., to court where he ordered the conspiracy trial of John D. Erlichman severed from the other defendants. Gesell said that President Nixon's refusal to allow lawyers access to files "makes it in possible for the court to do its duty" to conduct a fair trial.

Columbus State Hospital Needs Volunteer Help

The Columbus State Hospital needs volunteer help, according to Mrs. Norma Toland, 417 S. Washington St., second vice-president of the SCH Volunteer Service Council.

Volunteers are needed to teach jewelry making or crafts in the pre-industrial department; to assist the bookmobile on Fridays for patients unable to visit the library; and to clean tables in the commissary.

Nursing services volunteers help feed patients, help them write letters, help them with personal hygiene, help them dress, assist with reading, and take wheelchair or walker patients for walks on the grounds.

Volunteers can also be used in the clubroom, to visit with patients, to play games with them, or in clerical roles in the hospital.

Mrs. Toland stresses the need for outside contact with the patients to prevent institutionalization and to encourage patients to look outward.

Persons interested in volunteer work should contact Mrs. Toland at 474-8983.

Pickaway County has 29 persons hospitalized at the Columbus State Hospital.

Police Dispute Honored

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A federal appeals court was to be asked today whether length-of-service requirements and extra credit for seniority make Toledo's police promotion examinations discriminatory.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was being asked to overturn a lower court ruling and injunction which found certain provisions of the testing system discriminatory to blacks and Spanish Americans on the force.

The ruling in December 1973 came after two members of the Afro-American Patrolmen's League filed suit on behalf of themselves and 16 other black patrolmen who took the last test administered for promotion to sergeant April 28, 1973.

None of the 18 blacks was among the top scorers, and 15 white patrolmen occupied the top portions of an eligibility list published the following month. They would have been promoted to sergeant the following fall had it not been for the complaint and the subsequent injunction.

Attorneys for the Toledo Police Department, the Toledo Civil Service Commission, the Toledo Safety Department and the 15 white patrolmen who were never promoted, argue in their briefs that the 1973 ruling was erroneous and that the injunction it includes has seriously weakened the police department's effectiveness.

In addition to freezing the promotions to sergeant, the injunction prohibited future promotions to ranks of lieutenant and captain until all the promotional exams had been rewritten with the cooperation and approval of the Afro-American Patrolmen's League and the sergeant's test has been administered again.

U.S. District Court Judge Don Young said that the system as it stands is discriminatory because it:

—Requires patrolmen to hold their posts five years, and sergeants and lieutenants to hold their posts two years, before being eligible for promotion exams to the next rank. Young said he could find no relationship between long periods of service and competency.

—Provides extra credit on the exams on the basis of seniority. Young said long service in one rank indicates less, not more ability to perform in a higher rank.

Three World Series games ended in ties before lights were installed in major league parks. The ties were in 1907, 1912 and 1922.

The New York Yankees lead in World Series victories with 20. They have lost nine times.

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland's Reggie Jackson, the Most Valuable Player in 1973, led all American League players with nearly a quarter of a million votes in the first week of balloting for the All-Star team.

Figures released by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office today showed Jackson with 242,143 votes in the fan balloting.

Next among the outfielders was Al Kaline of Detroit, who has been used mostly as a designated hitter this season. He had 99,148 votes.

Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees and Willie Horton of Detroit were neck and neck for the third outfield position. Murcer had a slight lead with 95,335 votes to 92,658 for Horton.

Other position leaders were Boston catcher Carlton Fisk; his teammate, Carl Yastrzemski, at first base; Minnesota's Rod Carew at second; shortstop Bert Campaneris of the Oakland A's; and Buddy Bell of Cleveland at third base.

The closest race, other than between Murcer and Horton, was at first base where Yastrzemski had 104,445 votes, fewer than 9,000 ahead of Chicago's Dick Allen.

Almost a half million votes were cast in the first week of balloting. The All-Star teams will meet Tuesday night, July 23, in Pittsburgh.

3 Injured In Downs Race Pileup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The $20,000 Canadian-American feature at Scioto Downs Thursday night was marred by a three-horse pileup in the second division race, injuring the drivers.

The drivers, Mark Ferguson, Robert Davenport and Walter Paisley, were taken to Mount Carmel Hospital, where their conditions were not determined immediately.

Track officials said the accident occurred when Little Star Trek, driven by Ferguson, fell while passing Mickey Bloom, driven by Davenport. Paisley's horse, Braidwood, ran into Little Star Trek. All three drivers were thrown from their sulkies.

Meanwhile, Meadow Micky posted a 10½-length victory in the second division race, pacing the mile in 2:01 1-5 and paying $5.60, $3.80 and $2.80.

Earlier, in the first division, longshot Tenacious Lobell came on strong in the stretch to victory and paid $68.60, $15.40 and $7.80.

The 9-6 daily double combination of Jolly Dagmar and Go Hide was worth $159.

The quinella payoffs were 1-2 for $15.30 in the fourth race, 2-9 for $12.60 in the seventh and 4-9 for $48.30 in the 10th.

A crowd of 5,964 wagered $341,325.

Greens Hike Scores In U.S. Open Tilt

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — The 74th U.S. Open Golf Championship developed today into a putting contest on the ice slick, treacherous greens, and the man with the safecracker touch—Gary Player of South Africa—was tabbed as the burglar likely to take it all.

"If you can't chip and putt here, you might as well go home," lamented defending champion Johnny Miller, stunned by an opening round 76. "Player is the finest chipper, putter and sand player on the tour. He could walk away with it."

Gary must have been listening. The tough little world golfing gypsy from Johannesburg, seeking to add the Open to his Masters crown for the first two legs of an unprecedented professional Grand Slam, stroked Winged Foot's marble-top greens for an even-par 70 and the lead in Thursday's first round.

Other leading favorites putted—as old Sam Snead used to say—"as if both their blooming arms was broke."

Jack Nicklaus, golf's reigning king and 5-1 favorite to stash this 15th major crown in his vault, putted from 25 feet for a birdie on the first hole and left himself a 28-foot putt coming back, for the first of four straight bogeys.

"I told myself, 'This is some way to start the Open,'" Jack said afterward. "It took me four holes to regroup."

Nicklaus three-putted three of the first four holes, added another three-putt later on, and shot a 75.

"In every other way, this is a normal golf course," Nicklaus said. "The tournament is being played on the greens. These are the most severely fast, undulating greens I've ever seen."

Miller, who won at Oakmont Pa., last year with a recordclosing 63, also shot a 75.

Tom Weiskopf, the reigning British Open champion, fired a 76 and said he almost withdrew because of an ailing left wrist. Two-time winner Lee Trevino had a 78. Bill Casper, who won the Open on this same course 15 years ago, skied to an 80 and Hubert Green, the tour's current hotshot, scrambled to an 81.

It was a day of frustration and disaster.

It marked the first time since 1958 that a player had not broken par in the opening round of this championship. Mike Reasor of Seattle, who shot 135 in one round at Tallahassee, Fla., earlier this year after falling off a horse, and Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., were tied for second at 71, one stroke off Player's lead.

Two former PGA champions, Bobby Nichols and Ray Ford, were in a group at 72, along with Bruce Crampton of Australia, Jim Colbert and rookie Barney Thompson.

Thursday's collapse of some of the finest golf names in the business struck astounded this beautiful Westchester County community.

Playing conditions seemed ideal. Then everything seemed suddenly to come apart—especially for all of the favorites except Player.

Several players complained that they merely touched the ball and it shot off the green as if blown from a cannon.

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Mark Bayless of Chillicothe and Larry Harris of Lorain Clearview, two of the three Ohio Players of the Year, will lead their teams Saturday night in the Ohio North-South High School All-Star Basketball Classic.

Bayless, a 6-foot-2 guard heading for Ohio State University, will play for the South team. He was The Associated Press Class AAA Player of the Year.

Harris, who at 6-6 can play any position, is part of the 10-man North squad in the Marion Coliseum. Harris, The AP's No. 1 Class A player last season, led Clearview to the Ohio small school tournament title. He will attend the University of Pittsburgh.

Mike Phillips, Akron Manchester's 6-11 Class AA Ohio Player of the Year, was not selected for the game matching the state's top seniors from the 1973-74 season.

The South won the 1973 contest 85-83 to deadlock the series at seven victories apiece.

Bunk Adams of Toledo Scott, Jack Van Reeth of Millersburg West Holmes and Duane Miller of Dalton will coach the North team.

Tigers Top Cincy Reds

DETROIT (AP) — An exhibition game between the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds drew more than 27,000 fans and earned about $80,000 for sandlot baseball in Michigan, Ohio and Ontario, a special committee said.

The crowd set a record for an exhibition crowd in Detroit as the Tigers got three runs on a pair of early homers and added two more in the seventh inning to take the National League's Reds 5-3.

Mickey Stanley walloped a bases empty shot in the opening inning, and the Tigers added a pair in the second on a two-run blast by Jim Northrup off starter Tom Hall.

The Reds tagged Bill Slay back for a run in the second on singles by Hal King and Cesar Geronimo and a sacrifice fly by Dave Concepcion.

They tied the game in the sixth inning when Geronimo and Hal King delivered bases loaded singles.

Detroit loaded the bases in the seventh inning and earned the victory when John Knox hit a sacrifice fly to score one run and King was charged with a passed ball, as the other run came across.

Pete Rose slugged three hits to help the Reds' attack.

Fails In Openers

NEW YORK (AP) — Opening games seem to be something of a jinx for Tom Seaver of the New York Mets. Seven times the two-time Cy Young Award winner has opened the season and each time he has failed to stay around for the finish.

Team 5 Wins Men's Action

Team 5 won Pickaway Country Club's Thursday Night Men's League play with 19½ points.

Team members are Howie Davies, Ron Kazmierczak, Tom Snyder, Bob Wilson, Frank Estes, John Payne, Paul Mayberry, and Glen Gillespie.

Dean MacFadden won low gross honors with a 35. Tom Snyder was low net champ with a 30.

Never Over Par

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Ralph Johnston of Garden City, N.Y., did well in his first Masters. In four rounds he never went over par 72 and finished with 285 to tie for 15th place. He won $2,900 or about $150 more than he had earned in the previous three months.

Johnston qualified for the 1974 Masters with a 13th place finish in the 1973 U.S. Open.

Two Of Mongo's Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Two sons of the stallion Mongo recently won feature races more than 1,000 miles apart the same day. Bushongo won the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah in Florida for Mrs. Marion du Pont Scott, while Star Edition captured the Iroquois Handicap at Garden State Park in Camden, N.J., for Holly Crest Farm.

HOME BUILDERS—Tom Phillips, center, executive vice-president of the Ohio Home Builders Association, was guest speaker at the South Central Ohio Home Builders monthly meeting at Valley House, Chillicothe. With him are Dick Richter, left, vice-president; and Chuck Kerns, president. Phillips gave a report on bills passed in the legislature and discussed bills still pending. Final plans were made for the annual golf outing to be held July 11 at the Pickaway Country Club.

Fairgrounds Repair Funds Are Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Gilligan administration probably will ask the State Controlling Board to release $1.5 million from emergency funds to make repairs at the state fairgrounds, officials say.

"The money's there," said William Chavanne, Gov. John J. Gilligan's deputy assistant for legislative affairs, Thursday.

He was asked about possible problems at the fair, scheduled to open Aug. 22, after the legislature adjourned without acting on a supplemental appropriations bill.

Both an administration bill totaling $43.5 million, and an $81.8 million proposal backed by Republicans, contained $1.5 million to replace roofing and rewire buildings on the grounds.

The two bills were assigned to a conference committee that doesn't meet until June 24. Victor Lucas, fair manager, said even if repairs were started at once, the entire job may not get finished before the opening of this year's exposition.

Even if the committee should reach an agreement, the legislature is not scheduled to meet again until July 9.

Perk Said Happy With Campaign Pace

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate, said Thursday he thought his campaign was going at the pace it should for this time in an election year.

Perk shrugged off reports that Washington Republicans were writing him off as a loser, saying he noticed the news stories quoted only anonymous sources.

"There is no credibility to those reports," he said, noting that U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., called his race with Democrat John Glenn a "target race" while in Cleveland Wednesday. "I've always been the underdog in every campaign I've run," said Perk, who has been elected mayor twice in the heavily-Democratic city.

Perk was here with several other statewide Republican nominees for November to attend a campaign seminar conducted by GOP state headquarters.

Perk said he had an "honest difference" with former Gov. James A. Rhodes, nominee for the post again, about location of a General Motors facility at the Cadillac Tank Plant adjacent to Cleveland Hopkins Airport.

Rhodes, in a news release, said GM President Edward M. Cole indicated a meeting Tuesday that the firm was "extremely interested" in locating a new facility there.

Rhodes said such a plant would provide some 8,000 jobs with a payroll in excess of $100 million.

"The tank plant was discussed," said Perk "but I told him it was needed for airport expansion. There was absolutely no definite commitment on his part."

The plant property is now under control of the federal General Services Administration.

Rhodes said his firm, James A. Rhodes and Associates, has been working as industrial consultants with GM for three years.

Rhodes said both Brook Park and Cleveland have asked that the unused tank plant be turned over to their respective cities.

Jazz Festival Features Gladys Knight, O'Jays

When the 13th Annual Ohio Valley Jazz Festival comes to Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium on July 12 and 13, jazz and soul fans will be treated to four of the biggest names in the business. In fact, this year's Festival is the first in history to feature so many top stars in two nights.

The July 12 edition highlights Gladys Knight & the Pips, Grammy Award winning vocal group, whose recordings and showmanship have quickly become a legend in the industry.

Paired with Gladys will be the O'Jays, whose recent album "Ship Ahoy", skyrocketed the group to a well-deserved "star" billing. And, the Festival has announced that the O'Jays will be appearing at Riverfront Stadium with their own exciting 21-piece orchestra, in what promises to be a memorable appearance.

Also appearing on the Friday show will be the brilliant new 14-piece group, Tower of Power. This versatile instrumental and vocal group combines the best of jazz, soul, and blues in their set, and their latest recording "Back to Oakland" is now a national best seller.

Add to this program the "Head Hunter", Herbie Hancock, and the avant garde jazz sounds of the Donald Byrd Quintet, and jazz fans are in for an unforgettable evening.

And if Friday night's not enough, the July 13 concert pairs everyone's favorite singer, Al Green with the "First Lady of Song", Ella Fitzgerald, making her debut appearance at the Ohio Valley Jazz Festival. This appearance of Al Green and Ella Fitzgerald marks the first time the two superstars have ever appeared on the same bill together. The Saturday show also features Chick Corea and Return To Forever, along with the ever popular Jimmy Smith Trio with guest artists Gene Ammons and Sonny Stitt.

Back by popular demand this year is Concert TV Closeup, consisting of four giant screens, flanking the stage and providing patrons in all locations a close-up view of the artists and the action on stage.

Tickets to the 1974 edition of the Festival are now on sale in Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Cleveland, Youngstown, Steubenville, Portsmouth, Toledo, Akron, Canton, Louisville, Lexington, Indianapolis, and Detroit.

Ohio residents may call toll-free for brochures: 800-582-7384, and out-of-state residents: 800-543-7313.

Ladybugs To Rescue

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Toledo got 3 million new residents the other day. Officials flew in that many ladybugs and released them at 35 locations in a move to combat a variety of tree and leaf diseases and to curtail the summer spraying program.

Robert Mercer, assistant forestry commissioner, said the polka-dot beetles were released primarily to fight cottony maple tree scale.

The problem is caused by a hard-shelled insect called the scale bug which lodges in silver maples, drawing off liquid and eventually killing twigs.

Mercer said ladybugs feed on the scale bugs, eradicating the pests.

The ladybugs, bought for $10 a gallon from a California farm, do the work of two, two-man crews, machinery and insecticides which would cost about $4,600 over a two-month period, he said.

Set Sentence For Fraud

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Sentencing is expected next week in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court for three persons who have pleaded guilty to an $161,066 embezzlement from the Mile of Dimes Christmas charity.

Attorneys for Stanley Dahlman, 67, former Cincinnati Post & Times Star promotion director said his personal funds, totaling $95,026, have been released by the Internal Revenue Service.

The funds were to be turned over to the newspaper for the charity this morning, according to attorney Bernard Gilday.

Dahlman pleaded guilty to the charges after leaving the newspaper. Mrs. Dolores Haynes, 40, and her husband Everett, 43, also pleaded guilty to reduced charges.

Sentencing was delayed in all cases until reimbursement was resolved.

Ballet Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Ballet, this city's only major resident professional dance troupe, suspended operations Wednesday, citing a $300,000 deficit.

Leaders left open a question whether that will be a full session or only a skeleton meeting of leaders.

Spokesmen for the Office of Budget & Management said only about $5 million remains in the emergency fund. It was hit hard earlier this year as a result of Ohio National Guard involvement in the Xenia area tornado and two strikes by truckers that caused State Highway Patrol overtime.

Lucas described the $1.5 million as the "bare minimum" needed to replace some wiring in old buildings that hasn't been changed since before 1900. "Some of it is the old type, encased in porcelain," he said.

The state fire marshal and the division of factory and building inspection has recommended the renovation work for safety purposes, the fair manager said.

New wiring is needed in the grandstand, the poultry and rabbits building, and at least three commercial buildings along with the exposition's "switch over" center, where electricity from Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. is converted into fairground use, Lucas said.

Roofs need replacing on all structures, he added.

"If the two cities would be willing to release the property," he said, "I think General Motors would immediately begin negotiations with General Services Administration for the purchase of the facility."

Constitutional Changes Voted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislative action was completed early today on two proposed constitutional changes which are scheduled to appear on the November ballot.

One would expand the state's revenue bond financing program to include capital improvements for gas and electric utility services.

The other would do away with the one-year limitation on the term of the superintendent of public works. He then would serve at the pleasure of the governor, the same as other cabinet members.

Trial Motion Filed In Slaying

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—A motion for a new trial was filed in Johnson County District Court Thursday in behalf of James Hall, a University of Iowa student from Toledo, Ohio, convicted of second-degree murder.

Hall, 20, was found guilty May 23 of the March 13, 1973, murder of Sarah Ann Ottens, 20, a U of I nursing student from Morrison, Ill.

In the motion, Hall's attorneys contended the "verdict of the jury was against the weight of evidence." They also said some evidence was improperly admitted and other improperly withheld.

These are a few members of the Class of '73 who found what they were looking for in today's Army.

Contrary to popular belief, good jobs aren't that hard to find these days. Not, that is, if you know where to look.

And a better place to look than today's Army you won't find. Our confidence is based on these simple facts.

One. We have more jobs to offer the Class of '74 than anyone. Military or civilian. (About 70,000 openings.)

Two. The jobs are the kind you don't usually step into right out of high school. Electronics, construction, computers, technical repair, communications and law enforcement are a few of the over 300 good, steady jobs we offer.

Three. Although the jobs we offer are considered "skilled labor," we don't require that you already possess the skill. We'll teach you everything you need to know in our training courses. (Experience will come on the job.)

Four. You choose the exact job training you want before you enlist. And, if you qualify, you'll get it. Guaranteed in writing.

That's our job offer to the Class of '74. We think it'll pay you to look into it.

After all, look what it did for the Class of '73.

Workers will have to add decorative outdoor trim to the structures, carpeting, and furniture, according to L-K managers Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hedrick, who expect to open the new wing Aug. 1. It will bring the total number of units in the motel to 85. Expansion was made possible through the cooperation of local industry and citizens, according to Mrs. Hedrick.

Palestinians Key To Mideast Peace

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Nixon is likely to return from the Middle East convinced there can be no peace in the area until the Palestinian question is resolved.

Three guerrillas underlined that truth—and tried to mar Nixon's so far triumphant visit—by attacking a settlement in northern Israel Thursday. A spokesman for their organization told a news conference in Beirut the raid was a demonstration of "how every Arab should receive Nixon, the chief imperialist in the world."

Most Arab leaders the American President is meeting want to encourage the improving relations between the United States and the Arab world. But they are not passing up the opportunity to drive home the importance of the Palestinian issue. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was first off the mark Wednesday night. At the state banquet he gave for Nixon, he bluntly told the President the United States must do more to settle the Palestinian question, "the crux of the whole problem in the troubled region." Nixon side-stepped, saying he had not come "with readymade solutions" to decade-old problems. They will require "a great deal of delicate diplomacy on the part of all parties concerned," he said.

In Saudi Arabia, next stop on Nixon's tour, crusty 69-year-old King Faisal is expected to raise the issue again.

Faisal and neighboring Kuwait reportedly have offered to help establish a Palestinian state on the West Bank of the Jordan River with their oil millions if Israel gives up the area. Jordan lost the West Bank to Israel in the 1967 war.

Nixon goes from Saudi Arabia to Syria, one of the Palestinians' most militant supporters, and then to Israel, where the new government—like the one before it—says it won't even sit in the same conference room with the "terrorist murderers."

Nixon's trip ends in Jordan, from which King Hussein expelled the guerrillas in a bloody civil war in 1970. Hussein has offered to let the Palestine Liberation Organization, the guerrilla umbrella organization, negotiate for the return of the West Bank at the Geneva peace talks "if that is the will of other Arab states."

When Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned in triumph to the United States after negotiating the Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement, he acknowledged that the three most serious roadblocks to a final peace settlement were the Palestinians, Jerusalem and the question of Israel's borders.

Set Plans To Broaden Ohio GOP

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— "Positive action" programs to broaden the membership of state Republican Party organizations will be recommended today to a group studying party membership reform, an aide to U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R— Ohio, said Thursday.

Establishing speakers' bureaus, paying expenses of convention delegates, eliminating state membership fees and publicizing state party activities to increase participation will be among suggested programs, said Taras Szmagala.

Szmagala heads a subcommittee which will report to the national GOP's Rule 29 committee at a weekend meeting in St. Louis.

The Rule 29 committee was appointed by the national committee to study delegate selection and ways to broaden party membership. Changes would have to be approved by the national committee later this year.

Population characteristics as well as group support of the party should be considered by state GOP leaders in determining the shape positive action programs should take, the aide said.

U.S. Rep. Margaret M. Heckler, R— Mass., head of another subcommittee studying party membership, has recommended the same type of positive action programs be applied to delegate selection.

Former national GOP Chairman Ray C. Bliss of Akron, Ohio, heads a committee studying changes in delegate selection to be in force by the 1980 convention.

Award Contract For I-275 Work

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind. (AP) — Two Cincinnati firms were awarded a contract Thursday on their low bid of $4,384,559 for preliminary work on fill and a bridge approach to complete Interstate 275, the Circle Freeway, in southeastern Indiana.

Gene Hollack, chief engineer of the Indiana State Highway Commission, made the award to the Valley Asphalt Corp. and the John R. Jurgenson Co.

The commission said the three-mile section of the freeway probably would not be completed before 1977.

The Circle Freeway rings metropolitan Cincinnati and connects with northern Kentucky and southeastern Indiana.

Mrs. Kissinger Fights Ulcer Bout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Kissinger, wife of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, is undergoing tests and treatment for stomach ulcers at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Mrs. Kissinger was admitted Thursday and is expected to remain from 10 days to two weeks, a State Department spokesman said. He said she had a history of ulcer trouble. She married Kissinger March 30.

duties beyond the regular school day for instrumental music.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Kathleen Cooper and Mrs. Virginia Nothstine who are retiring and from Mrs. Abigail Robinson. Mrs. Cooper was formerly a first grade teacher at Ashville and Mrs. Nothstine, a fourth grade teacher at Ashville. Mrs. Robinson taught high school science.

Roger Campbell was released from his supplementary contract as assistant track coach and was employed on a supplementary contract as assistant baseball coach.

The resignation of Pamela Buettner from her leave of absence status was approved. She has been on leave but will not be able to return to her duties as a second grade teacher at Ashville Elementary.

A short-term investment was approved and a resolution passed approving the adjustment of the hourly wage paid to those non-certificated people who substituted during the month of May. The wage was adjusted from $1.80 to $1.90 per hour to meet with the new federal wage law.

In routine business, the board approved the final insurance contract rates passed by the Bureau of Insurance and approved the application for the DPPF funds as prepared by the administration.

Approval was granted for the employment of a part-time secretary for the summer on an hourly basis at the high school, junior high and central office.

Roger Patterson was appointed to the position vacated by Philip Everett as assistant principal. Patterson will continue to teach advanced mathematics and algebra II and will also perform administrative duties as assigned by the high school principal, Bill Toney.

A discussion was held on the non-certified salaries which are being drafted. Reports were given on maintenance matters including painting, blacktopping, window replacement schedule and other repair work.

The board granted and conducted a hearing for a teacher whose contract had not been renewed at the April meeting. No action was taken by the board to change the April decision. The teacher was eligible for a five-year contract and the board had made the decision not to grant it.

The meeting was adjourned with a resolution to hold the next meeting on June 17 instead of the regularly scheduled June 24. The July meeting was also rescheduled from July 22 to July 15. At that meeting a hearing will be held on the budget and the board will receive bids and quotations on all services including milk, bread, gasoline, fuel oil, tire service and fleet insurance.

Man Held For Fake Cooper Ad

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—A Massillon, Ohio, man faces $1,000 in fines and five years in prison on charges of mail fraud in connection with a fake Alice Cooper rock concert, postal authorities said Thursday.

Edward F. Kuhns, 29, was arrested Wednesday as he picked up the first $800 in ticket orders at a borrowed post office box. He told authorities he was short of funds.

Kuhns is a father of two and a former associate Massillon city planner.

A tall dark-haired man placed a two-column advertisement in The Cleveland Plain Dealer last Friday. The ad promised Alice Cooper, the Edgar Winter group and the Doobie Brothers in concert July 29 near Wheeling, W. Va.

The same star-bordered ad was placed Sunday in the Columbus Dispatch and Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Plain Dealer notified police after a check with the rock groups' managers revealed the ad was fraudulent.

Postal Inspector Charles E. McGinn said fans who sent $10 for tickets will get their money back after it is used as evidence.

Kuhns was released on $5,000 bond.

IN PLACE—Workers from the Carroll Construction Co., Chillicothe, place one of 2 units onto the foundation at the L-K Motel, Route 23 south. They were able to assemble the units at a rate of one per half hour. The units, manufactured by Avco Co., Richmond, Ind., come complete with wiring, windows, doors and wall fixtures and even have light bulbs in place. Workers will have to add decorative outdoor trim to the structures, carpeting, and furniture, according to L-K managers Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hedrick, who expect to open the new wing Aug. 1. It will bring the total number of units in the motel to 85. Expansion was made possible through the cooperation of local industry and citizens, according to Mrs. Hedrick.

Palestinians Key To Mideast Peace

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Nixon is likely to return from the Middle East convinced there can be no peace in the area until the Palestinian question is resolved.

Three guerrillas underlined that truth—and tried to mar Nixon's so far triumphant visit—by attacking a settlement in northern Israel Thursday. A spokesman for their organization told a news conference in Beirut the raid was a demonstration of "how every Arab should receive Nixon, the chief imperialist in the world."

Most Arab leaders the American President is meeting want to encourage the improving relations between the United States and the Arab world. But they are not passing up the opportunity to drive home the importance of the Palestinian issue. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was first off the mark Wednesday night. At the state banquet he gave for Nixon, he bluntly told the President the United States must do more to settle the Palestinian question, "the crux of the whole problem in the troubled region." Nixon side-stepped, saying he had not come "with readymade solutions" to

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Don't permit trifles to be blown out of proportion. The mountain which grows from a molehill is usually unbelievably difficult to conquer.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An inspired idea and friendly cooperation should help you in perfecting some of your long-range plans. Study new developments.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): An old acquaintance will do you a very good turn — quite unexpectedly. In fact, your relationships with others, generally, should be unusually congenial.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Be prudent, of course, but don't pinch pennies where spending is warranted. There ARE times when stretching the budget pays off.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Place your confidence in hard facts rather than "feelings" and, in discussions with others, don't be overly imaginative. You could read too much into their words.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Personal relationships should be highly congenial now. In fact, some of your brighter and more amusing companions could give you some stimulating ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Cut loose from undesirable situations. Try again — from scratch, if need be. Retracing steps can be a revivifying process in certain areas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): False statements COULD mislead but, under day's capital influences, you should be able to discriminate well. Just be alert.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Put a bit more enthusiasm into efforts. Success can come through new alliances. The "different," if appropriate, could spark day's happy accomplishment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): This should be a fruitful day, when some of your more vigorous efforts could bring unexpected rewards and recognition. Romance also favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Best results will accrue from working with those who have know-how and inspiration to offer. Solo ventures may not be as successful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Diversity is this day's keyword, but NOT confusion. Neither plan nor act without sound and long-range purpose. Don't let your imagination run out of bounds.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most artistic of all Geminians — and that is saying a lot. Even if you should choose a business career, you will follow some form of art, either as a second vocation or an avocation. And the fields vary from music, writing, painting and designing to the theater. You love to travel and your affinity for beauty, color and symmetry is outstanding. You always see the best in people and places and your tendency is to share your delightful observations with others. In fact, you incline to share EVERYTHING with others since you are generous, almost to a fault. You are ingenious, too, and could even make a name for yourself through the invention of some form of highly useful gadgetry. Traits to curb: impulsiveness and extravagance. Birthdate of: Mrs. Schumann-Heink, opera singer; Edvard Grieg, Norwegian composer; Edward, the "Black Prince" of Wales.

Phosphorus Handbook

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Jean Morgan Spencer, assistant professor of geology at Baylor University, is one of four editors of a recently published book, "The Environmental Phosphorus Handbook."

The book compiles articles on phosphorus by 41 authors from as far away as Japan, Rome, Africa, Canada and Switzerland, and from the United States.

Mrs. Spencer said the book is designed to present the opinions and findings of specialists in various scientific fields on the subject of phosphorus.

Written chiefly for scientists and government officials interested in the effects of phosphorus on our environment, the book explores all aspects of the mineral, including how and in what forms phosphorus reaches the earth, the weathering of phosphorus, phosphorus deposits and how to prospect for them, phosphorus in oceans and compounds of phosphorus.

U.S. Consumes Plenty Of Silver

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 150 million ounces of silver are used in the United States each year.

"Production," says a Department of Interior spokesman, "could be increased by discovery and development of new resources, and increased prices would encourage development of large known potential resources in low-grade disseminated deposits."

The photographic industry alone consumes more silver than the country's annual production from mines.

The American Association of Blood Banks, a nonprofit association, is the world's largest organization devoted exclusively to blood banking and transfusion services.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ohio, Illinois Players Lead NCAA Team

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — The NCAA District Four All-Star baseball team is dominated by players from Ohio and Illinois.

The all-star squads were announced today by Jack Rafeld, chairman of the district committee and athletic director of Mount Union College here.

Ed Gvazinskas of Western Illinois and Ed Milavcic of Ohio Northern are the first-team pitchers. Behind the plate is Ohio Northern's Bill Lang.

Around the horn are Greg Palka, first base, Western Illinois; Dennis Mantick, second base, Western Illinois; Bob Russell, shortstop, Mount Union, and Jeff Cavanaugh, third base, Wisconsin State at Whitewater.

The second team selections are Dave Ferb, first base, Rockford; Tom Twellman, second base, Southern Illinois at Edwardsville; Ken Laveck, shortstop, Marietta; Dean Horger, third base, Baldwin-Wallace; Fred Dintleman, left field, Western Illinois; Jim Hill, center field, Western Illinois; Randy Smith, right field, Mount Union; Carl Gjeldum, catcher, Wabash; John McEvey, pitcher, Augustana, and Dwane Theiss, pitcher, Marietta.

Five pitchers received honorable mention. They are Don Brodt, Western Illinois; Jan Freshley, Mount Union; Mike Zalucki, Wayne State; William Baltz, Southern Illinois at Edwardsville and Dwaine Nelson, Eastern Illinois.

Others on the honorable mention list are Al Donhoff, Ohio Northern; Steve Duckhorn, Elmhurst; Pat Peterson, Southern Illinois; at Edwardsville; Al Weir, Augustana; Connie Kowal, Western Illinois; Don Brunetti, Hiram; Steve Mott, Otterbein; Tom Taylor, Valparaiso; Steve Sharp, Ohio Northern; Cliff Eisenberg, University of Chicago, and Al Hanke, Wisconsin State at Whitewater.

Hurlers Manage

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A number of former major league pitchers are managing minor league baseball teams this season. Two of them include former no-hit hurlers Jim Bunning and Hoyt Wilhelm. Bunning runs the Toledo Mud Hens in the International League while Wilhelm has the Kingsport, Tenn., Braves in the Appalachian League.

Other ex-hurlers managing in the minors include John Antonelli at Tidewater, Va., in the International League; Bob Lemon with the Sacramento Solons in the Pacific Coast League; Stan Williams with the Pittsfield, Mass., Rangers in the Eastern League; Frank (Stubby) Overmire with the Lakeland Tigers in the Florida State League and Larry Sherry with the Charleston, W. Va., Pirates in the Western Carolinas League.

Leads 6th Time

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The United States Trotting Assn. reports that Herve Fillion of Angers, Que., has led North American harness drivers in victories the past four years, and in money the past six years. The 34-year-old driver piloted his own helicopter for day and night racing and turned in 445 victories in 1973. Horses he drove earned $2,233,302.

In 1972 Fillion set a world record with 605 wins in one year.

Joe Marsh Jr., who led Chicago drivers, was second to Fillion for the second straight year. He had 322 wins.

Phoenix Bridge

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The minor league directory of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues shows some interesting names this spring. For instance, the former manager of the San Diego Padres, Rocky Bridges, is managing the Phoenix Giants in the Pacific Coast League. And former star second baseman Julian Javier manages the Yucatan Lions in the Mexican League while Tommie Aaron, brother of Hank, is the field leader for the Savannah Braves in the Southern League.

Blood is human living tissue composed of cellular elements suspended in a watery fluid called plasma.

Rap 'Little Red Schoolhouse'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio lawmakers have had fun with an item in Gov. John J. Gilligan's supplemental appropriations bill that called for $50,000 for "the little red schoolhouse."

Even Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perryburg, House minority leader and an alumnus of Bowling Green State University, disavowed the request that was made on behalf of his alma mater.

He referred to the item as "pork barrel."

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, and other members of the House from northwest Ohio came forward with the $50,000 request. They said it would be used by Bowling Green to dismantle a century old one-room school building in Huron County. The building would be reconstructed on the BGSU campus and used as a museum "for educational memorabilia."

Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, House finance chairman, denied Kurfess' claim that no one from the university requested the money. He said he was sure "someone from the university" came to the Finance Committee and made the formal request.

Still, Shoemaker joined the verbal

Jackson Pushes Full Employment

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson says he hopes to drum up public support to convince Congress to approve a full-employment bill that can work.

"We cannot depend on Congress," Jackson, national president of People United to Save Humanity (PUSH), told a news conference Wednesday.

Jackson said a full-employment bill would have to save the jobs of those now working, find employment for those without jobs and organize unorganized workers so that they can receive higher pay.

Fred Buzhardt Hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, one of President Nixon's closest advisers in the Watergate case, was hospitalized early today with a suspected heart attack, a spokesman at Fairfax Hospital in suburban Virginia said.

Buzhardt, 50, was admitted to the hospital with chest pains at 12:23 a.m. Hospital spokeswoman Peggy Pond said Buzhardt was thought to be suffering from myocardial infarction, which she defined as "a clot in the heart muscle."

Ohio, Illinois Players Lead NCAA Team

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — The NCAA District Four All-Star baseball team is dominated by players from Ohio and Illinois.

The all-star squads were announced today by Jack Rafeld, chairman of the district committee and athletic director of Mount Union College here.

Ed Gvazinkas of Western Illinois and Ed Milavcic of Ohio Northern are the first-team pitchers. Behind the plate is Ohio Northern's Bill Lang.

The second team selections are Dave Ferb, first base, Rockford; Tom Twelman, second base, Southern Illinois at Edwardsville; Ken Laveck, shortstop, Marietta; Dean Horger, third base, Baldwin-Wallace; Fred Dintleman, left field, Western Illinois; Jim Hill, center field, Western Illinois; Randy Smith, right field, Mount Union; Carl Gjeldum, catcher, Wabash; John McEvey, pitcher, Augustana, and Dwane Theiss, pitcher, Marietta.

Five pitchers received honorable mention. They are Don Brodt, Western Illinois; Jan Freshley, Mount Union; Mike Zalucki, Wayne State; William Baltz, Southern Illinois at Edwardsville and Dwayne Nelson, Eastern Illinois.

Others on the honorable mention list are Al Donhoff, Ohio Northern; Steve Duckhorn, Elmhurst; Pat Peterson, Southern Illinois; at Edwardsville; Al Weir, Augustana; Connie Kowal, Western Illinois; Don Brunetti, Hiram; Steve Mott, Otterbein; Tom Taylor, Valparaiso; Steve Sharp, Ohio Northern; Cliff Eisenberg, University of Chicago, and Al Hanke, Wisconsin State at Whitewater.

Hurlers Manage

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A number of former major league pitchers are managing minor league baseball teams this season. Two of them include former no-hit hurlers Jim Bunning and Hoyt Wilhelm. Bunning runs the Toledo Mud Hens in the International League while Wilhelm has the Kingsport, Tenn., Braves in the Appalachian League.

Other ex-hurlers managing in the minors include John Antonelli at Tidewater, Va., in the International League; Bob Lemon with the Sacramento Solons in the Pacific Coast League; Stan Williams with the Pittsfield, Mass., Rangers in the Eastern League; Frank (Stubby) Overmire with the Lakeland Tigers in the Florida State League and Larry Sherry with the Charleston, W. Va., Pirates in the Western Carolinas League.

Leads 6th Time

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The United States Trotting Assn. reports that Herve Filion of Angers, Que., has led North American harness drivers in victories the past four years, and in money the past six years. The 34-year-old driver piloted his own helicopter for day and night racing and turned in 445 victories in 1973. Horses he drove earned $2,233,302.

In 1972 Filion set a world record with 605 wins in one year.

Joe Marsh Jr., who led Chicago drivers, was second to Filion for the second straight year. He had 322 wins.

Phoenix Bridge

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The minor league directory of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues shows some interesting names this spring. For instance, the former manager of the San Diego Padres, Rocky Bridges, is managing the Phoenix Giants in the Pacific Coast League. And former star second baseman Julian Javier manages the Yucatan Lions in the Mexican League while Tommie Aaron, brother of Hank, is the field leader for the Savannah Braves in the Southern League.

Rap 'Little Red Schoolhouse'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio lawmakers have had fun with an item in Gov. John J. Gilligan's supplemental appropriations bill that called for $50,000 for "the little red schoolhouse."

Even Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, House minority leader and an alumnus of Bowling Green State University, disavowed the request that was made on behalf of his alma mater.

He referred to the item as "pork barrel."

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, and other members of the House from northwest Ohio came forward with the $50,000 request. They said it would be used by Bowling Green to dismantle a century old one-room school building in Huron County. The building would be reconstructed on the BGSU campus and used as a museum "for educational memorabilia."

Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, House finance chairman, denied Kurfess' claim that no one from the university requested the money. He said he was sure "someone from the university" came to the Finance Committee and made the formal request.

Pollution And Superpatriots Aid Flag Maker's Business

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Every day, not just June 14, is Flag Day for Mel Shikora. A leading flag manufacturer, Shikora says air pollution and super-patriots are good for his business.

Shikora, who runs Milwaukee's Eder Flag Manufacturing Co., says he can't wait for 1976 when he expects an unprecedented run on American flags and red, white and blue bunting to spruce up bicentennial celebrations.

"I think the trend toward buying more flags is really going to pick up in 1975 and probably continue through the end of the 1970s," said Shikora, 40, who inherited the business from a father-in-law who started hawking pennants more than 50 years ago.

"I can feel the movement already," he said. "People are starting to get away from looking at the flag as a symbol of either the left or the right and getting more concerned about its history and what it means to the country."

He said that business boomed during the Vietnam war, but it upset him to see doves burning or wearing the flag and hawks flying it as a badge of their politics.

Ohioan Dies; Gas Blamed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A construction supervisor was overcome by nitrogen gas and asphyxiated in a 12-foot deep manhole in downtown Rochester Thursday, police said.

Stephen Bacon, 32, of Salem, Ohio, was pronounced dead on arrival at Genesee Hospital.

Investigators said he was testing pressurized nitrogen gas being pumped into a pipe in preparation for laying electrical cables.

The gas apparently dissipated the oxygen in the confined space before Bacon became aware of it, officials said.

He worked for Poling & Bacon Construction Co. of Salem, Ohio. His father was listed as a partner in the firm.

Man In Hospital After Altercation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Robert Davis remained hospitalized today with gunshot wounds following an altercation with suburban Lincoln Heights Patrolman Clause Stevenson.

Stevenson said Davis struck him on the head with a brick Thursday morning after the officer was summoned to quiet a disorderly man.

Stevenson said he drew his gun and fired when Davis began stomping him. Davis was wounded in both legs.

Local Fires Extinguished

Two fires were reported to the Circleville Fire Department yesterday and this morning involving an auto fire on Northridge Road and a case of arson in the Pickaway County Jail.

At 3:30 p.m. Thursday, a broken gas line caused the vehicle owned by Mike Martin, Route 3, to ignite on Northridge Road at the junction of Garden Parkway. Firemen estimated damages to the car at $10.

Firemen spent nearly an hour at the county jail early this morning when one of the prisoners set fire to his mattress. The fire was reported at 12:02 a.m. and caused estimated damages totaling $500. Firemen had to use air masks and breathing apparatus while clearing the jail because of the density of the smoke.

According to Sheriff's Authorities, prisoners put a mattress up against a door and set it on fire.

Deputies Brown, Huffman and Betts, in the building at the time of the fire, began evacuating prisoners from the first floor to the second floor of the jail.

Tim Carpenter, dispatcher trainee, notified Deputies Holt and Dewey, who were on patrol, to come and assist with the disturbance. Thompson, Dixon, Circleville Police Sgt. Barton, Ron Thompson, Ashville Chief Alva Boyer and Larry Eitel also assisted in transporting the prisoners to another portion of the jail.

No report was made of smoke inhalation to any of the prisoners. The incident is still under investigation.

Mayor And Husband Split Over Community's Future

LAKE MARY, Fla. (AP) — The husband of the mayor of this sleepy little town has started a campaign to put her honor out of work.

The first family of Lake Mary, a town of 2,600 north of Orlando, is split politically over whether the city should grow. Mayor Margie Hess feels it should. Citizen George Hess feels it shouldn't.

"This city voted to incorporate to keep things the way they are—dirt roads and all," citizen Hess, a part-time construction worker, said Thursday. "It's just a country hick town. We want to keep it that way."

Incorporation passed by a single vote last August. In December, Mrs. Hess, campaigning partly on her record of service with the volunteer fire department and partly on an "orderly growth" platform, was elected mayor. She's paid $125 a month.

Monday night, Mayor Hess and the city council voted 3 to 1 to approve a housing development that Hess says would bring in too many people.

He met with an attorney Thursday to draft a petition calling for the abolition of the city charter.

He said he expects the petition to hit the streets next week. It would require signatures of 51 per cent of the electorate to force a recall vote.

"I really hate to see the incorporation broken," said Hess. "But there really isn't any other way to undo what the council has done."

"Additional pressure to hire a second policeman, road work crews and add other big-city expenses also prompted my action."

In the meantime, Mayor Hess is kept busy answering the family telephone, which has been ringing steadily with calls supporting the petition.

"It certainly is interesting being the mayor and acting as an answering service for people who want to put me out of business," said Mrs. Hess, a registered nurse, mother of three children and owner of the family business, a hardware store.

She said that although she likes her job, she holds no grudges against her husband for trying to do away with it.

"I understand fully why he is trying to do this," she said. "But I worked hard to be elected mayor and I would like to see the city continue."

Pollution And Superpatriots Aid Flag Maker's Business

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Every day, not just June 14, is Flag Day for Mel Shikora. A leading flag manufacturer, Shikora says air pollution and super-patriots are good for his business.

Shikora, who runs Milwaukee's Eder Flag Manufacturing Co., says he can't wait for 1976 when he expects an unprecedented run on American flags and red, white and blue bunting to spruce up bicentennial celebrations. "I think the trend toward buying more flags is really going to pick up in 1975 and probably continue through the end of the 1970s," said Shikora, 40, who inherited the business from a father-in-law who started hawking pennants more than 50 years ago.

"I can feel the movement already," he said. "People are starting to get away from looking at the flag as a symbol of either the left or the right and getting more concerned about its history and what it means to the country."

He said that business boomed during the Vietnam war, but it upset him to see doves burning or wearing the flag and hawks flying it as a badge of their politics.

"More people are now interested in historical flags," said Shikora, who expanded to flag repairs when air pollution began leaving his banners sooty and full of holes.

He said many people distressed with Watergate are retreating into the patriotism of old by raising the flag, which he will make in any size up to 20 by 30 feet and in any price range up to $447.

He sews the banners of many states and foreign nations as well as the flags of most major corporations.

He also will make custom-ordered flags—unless they're obscene—and through the years has produced some strange banners now floating over homes, summer cottages and boats.

They include a tailored boat flag bearing a wicked looking battle axe and an inscription reading: "Mother-in-law Aboard."

Local Fires Extinguished

Two fires were reported to the Circleville Fire Department yesterday and this morning involving an auto fire on Northridge Road and a case of arson in the Pickaway County Jail.

At 3:30 p.m. Thursday, a broken gas line caused the vehicle owned by Mike Martin, Route 3, to ignite on Northridge Road at the junction of Garden Parkway. Firemen estimated damages to the car at $10.

Firemen spent nearly an hour at the county jail early this morning when one of the prisoners set fire to his mattress. The fire was reported at 12:02 a.m. and caused estimated damages totaling $500. Firemen had to use air masks and breathing apparatus while clearing the jail because of the density of the smoke.

According to Sheriff's Authorities, prisoners put a mattress up against a door and set it on fire.

Deputies Brown, Huffman and Betts, in the building at the time of the fire, began evacuating prisoners from the first floor to the second floor of the jail.

Tim Carpenter, dispatcher trainee, notified Deputies Holt and Dewey, who were on patrol, to come and assist with the disturbance. Thompson, Dixon, Circleville Police Sgt. Barton, Ron Thompson, Ashville Chief Alva Boyer and Larry Eitel also assisted in transporting the prisoners to another portion of the jail.

No report was made of smoke inhalation to any of the prisoners. The incident is still under investigation.

Mayor And Husband Split Over Community's Future

LAKE MARY, Fla. (AP) — The husband of the mayor of this sleepy little town has started a campaign to put her honor out of work.

The first family of Lake Mary, a town of 2,600 north of Orlando, is split politically over whether the city should grow. Mayor Margie Hess feels it should. Citizen George Hess feels it shouldn't.

"This city voted to incorporate to keep things the way they are—dirt roads and all," citizen Hess, a part-time construction worker, said Thursday. "It's just a country hick town. We want to keep it that way."

Incorporation passed by a single vote last August. In December, Mrs. Hess, campaigning partly on her record of service with the volunteer fire department and partly on an "orderly growth" platform, was elected mayor. She's paid $125 a month.

Monday night, Mayor Hess and the city council voted 3 to 1 to approve a housing development that Hess says would bring in too many people.

He met with an attorney Thursday to draft a petition calling for the abolition of the city charter.

He said he expects the petition to hit the streets next week. It would require signatures of 51 per cent of the electorate to force a recall vote.

"I really hate to see the incorporation broken," said Hess. "But there really isn't any other way to undo what the council has done."

"Additional pressure to hire a second policeman, road work crews and add other big-city expenses also prompted my action."

In the meantime, Mayor Hess is kept busy answering the family telephone, which has been ringing steadily with calls supporting the petition.

"It certainly is interesting being the mayor and acting as an answering service for people who want to put me out of business," said Mrs. Hess, a registered nurse, mother of three children and owner of the family business, a hardware store.

She said that although she likes her job, she holds no grudges against her husband for trying to do away with it. "I understand fully why he is trying to do this," she said. "But I worked hard to be elected mayor and I would like to see the city continue."

Ohioan Dies; Gas Blamed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A construction supervisor was overcome by nitrogen gas and asphyxiated in a 12-foot deep manhole in downtown Rochester Thursday, police said.

Stephen Bacon, 32, of Salem, Ohio, was pronounced dead on arrival at Genesee Hospital.

Investigators said he was testing pressurized nitrogen gas being pumped into a pipe in preparation for laying electrical cables.

The gas apparently dissipated the oxygen in the confined space before Bacon became aware of it, officials said.

He worked for Poling & Bacon Construction Co. of Salem, Ohio. His father was listed as a partner in the firm.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Robert Davis remained hospitalized today with gunshot wounds following an altercation with suburban Lincoln Heights Patrolman Clause Stevenson.

Stevenson said Davis struck him on the head with a brick Thursday morning after the officer was summoned to quiet a disorderly man.

Stevenson said he drew his gun and fired when Davis began stomping him. Davis was wounded in both legs.
